O'Hara Mill art show draws crowd

A good number of people were on hand, July 30, at the O'Hara Mill museum, to view the works of local artists and artisans.

The sun shined throughout The sun shined throughout the day, as art lovers and those out to just enjoy what the artists had to offer, saw the works of Debra Tate-Sears, Arja Palonen, Pat Eplett-Hubbard, Don Adams, Audrey Ross, Susan VanderWeele, Court Batten, John Muldrew, Jeanette Campbell, Moyra Hillier and Penny Harrop.

Arja Palonen, who lives near Tweed, says that in such a situation as this, where the displays are outdoors, the people can feel relaxed, which they might not feel at a gallery. She says that it isn't so much if you sell anything, but what you get out of it. She says she loves to hear people say they love her work. Palonen works in both oils and waterco-lor, always happy going back to one after having worked on the other. She says she is very happy with the turnout.

Debra Tate-Sears, from Tweed, whose paintings have been sold throughout Ontario, the northern United States, and England, was also happy

Council receives proposal for Industrial Park

Guy Gosselin, representa-tive for a company which manufactures high-quality horse barns, presented Madoc council with a proposal to build a 6 to 7,000 square foot factory on two acres of land, west of town.

Gosselin expressed the desire for two lots along Seymour Street, and three more running along the railroad bed. He says that along with the first building, two to three other buildings would also be built. Two to three other companies which use the by-products from the original company, would then lease these buildings.

The buildings materials, the horse stall sections, would be pre-fabricated, Gosselin says. He explained that the sawdust from their work is used by another company (which would lease one of the additionwould lease one of the additional buildings) to manufacture artificial logs for burning in wood stoves. Gosselin says each separate company would complement the other by using the each other's by-products, reducing landfill use.

The customers and market for their products are in Toronto and in the eastern Provinces. As a result, Gosselin says easy access to the site by tractor-trailer transport is necessary.

The site will produce no pollution, with heating provided by propane. Gosselin added that a wood stove may be used to dispose of wood scraps. He says little water-will be used by the company,

Gosselin says he'd like to build before the ground freezes.

Council gave no definite approval of Gosselin's proposal, only to say they will get back to him with cost requirements. Reeve Tom Deline and Councillor Gord Crawford are to meet with the County Planner in the near future to get price recommendations.

Reeve Deline also says that

Reeve Deline also says that two other enterprizes have expressed interest in the industrial land and that they will make presentations when they are ready.

Work in progress - Debra Tate-Sears paints a picture of the O'Hare Mill, July 30, at the art show held there. Tate-Sears was very excited about the idea of such a show and hopes there will be more in the future. O'Hare Mill organizers of the show say the future shows are a very definite possibility.

Merchants responsible for cardboard disposal in September

As of Sept. 1, all merchants will be responsible for trans-porting their own bundled cardboard to the Madoc Land-fill Site, council has ruled.

This is a result of the village garbage truck no longer picking it up.

There is still no charge at the site for bundled garbage

Council says that they expect flack from the smaller merchants, although some have the intention of going in with the larger husinesses, to cart the cardboard.

This comes on the heels of the landfill site now accepting hard plastics, such as oil containers, as long as any metal caps have been metal caps removed.

Andrea Peters chosen as MVP of championships

Andrea Peters, who lives north of Eldorado, was chosen as most valuable player at the Provincial Women's Softball Association provincial champ-ionships held in Erindale, July

Peters, who plays for Belleville's Enright midget girls, was named the tournament's MVP as a result of 'contributing the most to her own team' and was chosen as a result of her high statistics. The pitcher/ second baseman says she is unsure of her exact statistics, except for having a batting average of .380, earned runs against (ERA) of .680 and a fielding average of 1000.

The 18 year old says she has been playing softball since she was nine. She played for the team in Eldorado between 1983-86, she says, before going on to Belleville. second baseman says she is

Dance classes open to all

Jazz, Tap and Ballet classes - Tawny Ruston (left) and Valerie Harrington (centre) are the professional dancers that will teach the jazz,

"Classes are already start-ing to fill-up," organizer Linda Grey says about the jazz, tap and ballet dance classes that she helped to organize for the coming year

she helped to organize for the coming year.

The half-hour classes, which will run throughout the year, begin Sept. 16, and are held at the Anglican Church Hall on Saturdays. Classes are open to both boys and girls, ages 3 to teens. Cost is $50 for teens, $40 for children ages 3-12, for a 12 week session. Classes run from the fall until spring, and dancers must attend classes until the spring to achieve their corresponding bronze, silver or gold medallions. Age groupings for the classes are 3-5, 6-8, 9-12 and teens. There is a minimum of six people required per class, with 12 being the maximum.

Teaching the classes is Carol Brown, of the Carol Brown, School of Dance in Trenton, and two professional dancers, Tawny Ruston and Valerie Harrington. Brown has been teaching dance for 23 years. Grey says that the classes originated after she had taken her daughter to the classes in Trenton for the past few years, and decided that a closer program would be helpful. She believes that this is the first program of this type in the area.

Individuals wishing to sign up for one of the dance classes must do so before Sept.

Peace is always the solution to strife. But, as I write this article I am asking myself the add to the already existing strife.

A peacemaker puts out a fire with his hose attached to a fire truck. A strife enhancer turns his hose in the direction of the fire too. But, his hose is attached to a gasoline truck. The peacemaker puts the fire out. The strife enhancer adds fuel to the fire.

Some of the seemingly most harmless people you can meet may turn out to be pyromaniacs. Little old ladies (they can be larger and younger as well and for that matter, they do not even have to be female, our brothers and sisters, our next door neighbours, and our coffee mug club. The only qualifications for such flame-throwers are a mouth and two big ears. big ears.

If we could only imagine hearing the siren and wail of red fire engines everytime someone decides to refuse to red if e digines everythis someone decides to refuse to be a peacemaker; why, the airwaves would be screaming with sirens. Perhaps if our lack of peacemaking were to be illustrated by elevating curls of swirling smoke above every spot where we had caused strife, then we might pause to reflect on whether we should continue to cause strife. Maybe if the effects of our actions became so visual, we might be more inclined to bury the hatchet and sow a kind word.

Someone shared a beautifully clear, illustration with me one day concerning the issue we have been discussing. I would like to share it with you.

we have been discussing. I would like to share it with you. Every individual carries two buckets all the time. One pail is full of water. The other bucket is brimming with gasoline. Whenever a person sees a situation smoldering with strife, he has a conscious decision to make. He can pour out his bucket of water on the smoke and quench the smoldering. Or, he can empty his bucket of gasoline and ignite a roaring destructive fire.

I believe Jesus would wish us to dose the flames and bring peace. Jesus said, "Blessed are the peacemakers." (Matthew 5:9) Paul also exhorts us to, "...follow after the things which make for peace..." (Romans 14:11) This can only be accomplished when you introduce a computer in your firm?

"Management must take a comprehensive approach," says Computing Canada magazine editor John Cardiff, "and recognize that computing changes tha way the information flows throughout the entire organization."

Manufacturers in particular know that there are two flows within every factory. The flow of physical goods — as raw materials are gradually transformed into finished products — and the flow of information which describes that process. Todays typical factory is roadblocked because the flow of physical goods cannot be faster than the flow of information. information.

Computers speed that information flow and pave the way for real gains in productivity. But in doing so, they also change work patterns by blurring the dividing lines between individual ich responsibilities. individual job responsibilities. That poses a significant social challenge to your employees and you should recognize it as

and you should recognize it as a possible source of stress.
"A proportion of employees will readily adapt and remain hungry for further challenges." says Julia Glick, a consultant with DMR, an inforconsultant with DMR, an information management and tech-nological consulting firm in Toronto. "Others will react less positively, perhaps with suspicion bordering on hostili-ty. They feel threatened. That's human nature."

The best way to deal with that, says Glick, is to keep employees fully informed, starting well before computers

"Tell them why this change is taking place, how it will affect their jobs, and the company as a whole, how they? can do things for themselves to make the job easier and what kind of support they can expect from the organization. They'll know what's in store for them and how they fit into the changed structure. They can begin, if they have to, to begin, if they have to, to change their attitudes."

That's sound advice. Studies show that if you do all these show that if you do all these things, you are more likely to achieve the objectives you set out for the system. You will also have made your employees aware of their important role in the changes aroud them. Once they feel they have a vested interest in the system, you'll be surprised at how quickly they'll learn to make different and better uses of it. Fortunately, help is readily available. If you purchased your equipment from one of tha larger vendors, they will almost certainly offer quality training programs. Failing that, contact your local community college or call the Ontario Ministry of Skills Development Training Hotline at 1-800-387-5656. I have written many times of I have written many times of an integrated center to deal with our waste problems. Our steering committee seems more intent on going the popu-lar route of recycling only without regard for (in my estimation) the long term maximum use of our tax

I am enclosing a copy of a proposal that has been around from some time that would give control; of the whole solid waste stream and protect a much greater supply of our water resource. In addition the grant monies would be avail. water resource. In addition the grant monies would be available if properly applied. Our ministers would certianly be more amenable to protecting a greater geographical area thus facilitating easier access to grant monies.

I must take this opportunity the congretulate the committee.

I must take this opportunity to congratulate the committee opposing the site in Huntingdon Township. On extraordinary short notice they came up with a well documented and indisputable presentation on why this site was unacceptable. It makes one wonder why with all the hundreds of thousands of dollars we pay Proctor and Redfern (consultants) that this work has not already that this work has not already been done and save the taxpay-ers a lot of unnecessary stress and strain.

One also has to wonder if the promotion of land fills is more profitable than the incineration projects. With the slight reduction of volume by recycling it would only be a short period of time and the whole process will have to be repeated. After all 15 to 20 years is not long in a lifetime, and a drop in the bucket of longterm environmental harm to our earth. to our earth.

to our earth.
Please read the enclosed document and give serious consideration to the common sense contained therein as well as the overall consideration given to all aspects not just certain items as proposed by our steering committee.
To my mind this provides an overall comprehensive

-Mrs. Caplan also announced $450,000 in funding for cancer research by the Ontario Clinical Oncology Group of Hamilton and the appointment of the director for the provincewide breast screening program. The new cancer agency, to be known as the Ontario Cancer Control Agency (OCCA), will co-ordinate cancer services across the province. "We are forming the largest cancer control agency in the country and one of the largest in the world," Mrs. Caplan said.

OCCA will strengthen the existing cancer care network through improved coordination of services. It will also advise the ministry on funding priorities. The treatment and research work done by the Ontario Cancer Institute (OCI) and the Ontario Cancer Treatment and Research Foundation (OCTRF) will continue under the direction of the new agency.

Wish requests are received by provincial directors, who are responsible for obtaining verification and consent from the child's physician. Great care is taken to ascertain that the request is truly the wish of the child. The wish is then processed by the National Office, where the arrangements are completed.

The only stipulations are that the parents or legal guardians must consent to our involvement, a doctor must sign the medical release and the children must not have reached their 18th birthday at the time the request is received.

medical release and the children must not have reached their 18th birthday at the time the request is received. As public awareness has increased, so has the number of children requesting our assistance. In many cases the child's time may be limited and we must take immediate action. This requires a constant source of funds. The foundation's sole means of support is through the donations of companies, unions, service groups and the Canadian public. Please lend support to our objective; that we will never be forced to furn away a wish child.

Help us make their dreams come true

Target price for industrial milk set for new dairy year

The new support prices reflect higher prices to producers, adjustments to the butter standard product yield and changes to processors margins. This will increase processor revenues from industrial milk product sales. Mazankowski also announced that a national task force has been set up to advise him on dairy matters over the coming months and to identify options for the next long-term dairy police commencing in 1991.

The Minister of State for Agriculture, Pierre Blais, indicated for the first time dairy farmers will have the opportunity to participate in the planning of a national dairy policy.

"The policy is developed for them, and we believe it is essential that they participate in its elaboration."
The task force will have representatives from the federal government, the Cana-dian Dairy Commission, the federal government, the Cana-dian Dairy Commission, the Dairy Farmers of Canada, the National Dairy Council, and the Consumers Association of Canada. It will be chaired by Ken McKinnon, Vice-chairman of the Canadian Dairy Commission.

Mazankowski has instructed Mazankowski nas instructed the task force to look at alternative price-settig mechanisms at arm's-length from the government, that could be used to balance the interests of producers, processors and consumers. The task force is to report back to the Minister on this issue by the end of January 1990.

The adjusted target price maintains but does not increase the aggregate level of government support for dairy

Canada contiunes to strong-"Canada contiunes to strong-typort the need for interna-tional trade reforms and intends to continue to act in accordance with the short-term undertakings contained in the April 1989 GATT agree-ment, said Mazankowski.

Agriculture Minister Don Mazankowski announced July 27 that the target price for industrial milk will be raised to $47.45 a hectolitre on Aug. 1, the beginning of the new dairy year.

The 39-cent per hectolitre increase is the first for dairy producers since Februrary 1988. Industrial milk prices have risen by only 2.1 per cent in the past three years including this increase.

The new target price for industrial milk represents a balanced decision and reaffirms our commitment to supp-

firms our commitment to suppfirms our commitment to supply management in the diary sector," said Mazankowski, adding "As well, this decision recognizes recent increases in producers' costs, while also taking into account Canada's international undertakings.

.Madoc gets dance classes

Five year old Nicole Lynn Grey is the daughter of Linda Grey of Madoc Village. Linda's and her husband Richard's efforts mean that jazz, tapp and ballet classes are being offered in Madoc even though mitther teaches are of these

Association, thus bringing instructors to Madoc from Trenton. With Nicole taking althree classes this year the Grey's were not looking forward to the idea of travelling to Belleville so much. Currently classes are open to those 19 years and under but

Linda says that if she can get the numbers, a mixed adult class could be arranged. Team are still needed to establish teen classes. An open house is being planned by Linda and the instructors for September 6th housever a time and place will be announced later. For more that call tinda at 473-4690.

Swim program almost cancelled after 18 years

by Janice Pinke
The summer swim program which began here in Madoc approximately 18 years ago was almost cancelled this August due to a lack of swimmers registering for the program.

Program.

However, a group of enthusiastic mothers joined forces and have moved the program to a private home on Moira Lake thus, accomodating the thirty-one kids who did.

Concelling the program (for thirty-one kids who did.

Cancelling the program (for the first time since it was established 18 years ago) meant that the three female instructors would be out of work says organizer Alleen Pigden. Moving the program to a private residence means that the program can continue because now there are no rental fees for a pool to pay so there is money for the instruc-tors. Also with the smaller number of registrants for August the private residence is able to accomodate these numbers. Crystal Beach's pool acco-modated more than eighty-five swimmers who registered for the summer swim program in swimmers who registered for the summer swim program in July according to Aileen, but for some reason numbers were down for August. The July numbers were the highest numbers recorded by the Village for the program in the last couple of years.

The summer swim program is also held at other locations such as Campkin's on Quin-Mo-Lac Road and the Ashton residence here in Madoc Village. For more information about the program call the village offices at 473-5211/5212.

Janet Heron and her daught-er Triscia utilize the pool at the Crystal Beach resort during hours which Madoc's annual summer swim program was booked to use it. Aileen Pigden says John Roy of Crystal Beach was very understanding when the program had to be cancelled this August because of poor registration numbers even though the program drew an estimated 85 swimmers in July. The program however is back on, after a group of mom's got together to keep it going

A survey distributed earlier this year by Madoc Village staff indicated to them, that there was a need for such a program. Application and finally approval of a grant from the Ministry of Tourism and Recreation was obtained.

Now, with the cancellation of the programs the three students have compiled another survey with the results going back to the Ministry to see about setting up a program for next year.

see about setting up a programs for next year.

The general feeling justifying the program's cancella-tion, is that it wasn't adver-tised early enough and its

tion, is that it wasn't advertised early enough and it commenced too, far into the summer months.

Student Margaret Kiltz says "it (cancellation) was a 'real let down' and all three students are hoping to gain some type of employment for the remainder of their summer vacation or possibly a job that they could retain when they head back to school September 5th. If you know of such a job please contact the students via the village offices.

Review last Wednesday night, said that when he was hired he inquired about being laid-off and the answer was that there would be none.

The Madoc mine, which employs an estimated forty persons, laid-off eleven people last November, calling them back, in February of this year. The lay-offs are expected to last between eight and twelve

A bulletin on a board at the company says the lay-offs are the result of a lost customer in the United States. No sales was the reason for the lay-offs last

Sky Spy Photography moves to Madoc

by Janice Pinke
For two hundred dollars or more, or less, you can have your home or business photographed - from the air - by a new business in the Quinte and surrounding areas based out of Madoc called Sky Spy
Photography

Photography. Scots Graham and Linda Empringham began the company in Richmond Hill. Combined the duo have twenty years of experience in this field (should not field read air).

(should not field read air).
Graham and Empringham moved to this area because the move meant that they were half wy between Ottawa and Toronto.
Scots Graham stresses that there are other companies who do the same kind of work but that his company is unique because they give you a choice of what you want before they go up to take the pictures.

and. Marmora Madoc villages have already commis-sioned Sky Spy Photography.

Already taken, the aerial photos of our village is due here this week according to company salesman Gary Carson.

Doing what Gary was hired for he says that there are other ways of saving on the photos such as, a group of interested people getting together and sharing the cost, but you will have to talk to Gary about that.

A brochure distributed by Sky Spy Photography says that by using aerial photography you can document construction progress, make initial proper-ty evaluations without leaving your office or use them in the main lobby, board room or office. They make an attrac-tive conversation piece for customers or associates.

Call Sky Spy Photography by dialing 473-4936.

Mr. Boswell commenced his Mr. Boswell commenced his shift at 11 p.m. on May 27th and all appeared to be well even though the hotel was filled with guests who were in the city for the Queen's University Gradu-ation exercises.

At approximately 1 a.m., something caused Mr. Boswell to leave the front desk and proceed to the area of the ice machine on the main floor. Beside the machine is a set of stairs leading to the second floor. At this location Boswell encountered two males. The three of them proceeded to the second floor and checked several rooms, awakening and

They returned to the first floor and continued checking rooms until they arrived at room 123 which was empty at the time. The two males forced Boswell into this room and immediately attacked him, stabbed him several times, tied him up and then exited the room. Several guests in the hotel had observed the two males on both floors and called police to investigate.

Over five hundred people turned out for the Art and Craft Show at the O'Hara Mill July 30th. As a result, organizers are optimistic that there will be a repeat performance next year. The drawing card for the show was Debra Tate-Sears (above) who sold over 25 paintings in one hour at a showing of her paintings at a gallery in Toronto recently. The staff of the O'Hara Mill Museum would like to thank the exhibitors, the public and those who donated baking as well as Doug Hunter Ford, Madoc's IGA, the Madoc Kivanis Club and Earl and Florence Blakely, all of whom made the O'Hara's ArtsiCraft sale such a wonderful success.

Husband and wife team take home a cupboard full of gold medals

by Brian Carruthers

This past weekend was just about perfect in Campbellford for the Provincial Marathon Canoe championships. The only flaw was the cold weather that invade the area on Monday, but even that as one paddler said, "When you out on the water you don't even notice it."

tnat as one paddler said, "When you out on the water you don't even notice it."

The big winners in the championships were the husband and wife team of Mike and Alison Vincent. The Ottawa couple took home three gold medals each. They took the C-2 mixed title and each of them won their respective individual races. Mike teamed up with Mike Devine to win the C-2 Men's event, while Alison joined forces with Heather Dunlop to take the C-2 women's title.

Les Crowe who hails from Crowe's Landing which is about 11 miles north of Norwood was the competitor who had the least distance to travel to get to Campbellford. He also took home his share of gold medals with a pair. Les, along with Garney Weaver won the C-2 Masters and he captained his team to victory in the North Conce Race. Les by the way is 73 years old.

At the other end of the scale four boys from Campbellford enter the races. They went into the C-2 Bantam class and both teams did well considering that they hadn't done much practicing.

The course was set up between locks 12 and/13 on the Trent River and one lap of the course was 4 1/2 miles.

The top four wins and their times in each category are: (Campbellfordians in bold)

Stroke Foundation is anticipating an exciting fall season with many public education events now being prepared.

The first venture will be a repeat of "Countdown" the stop smoking program which is presented by an instructor from the Kawartha Pine Ridge Lung Association. This is a program of self help and groun Lung Association. This is a program of self help and group assistance to aid smokers in taking control of their life and "Kicking the habit." Freedom from smoking can be gained in just five weeks. There is genuine support from group members, as well as dizrection roll the server server. and encouragement from the leader. trained course leader. Members learn about their habit and about coping tecniques. The atmosphere is relaxed and supportive.

Sessions will be held in the Sessions will be held in the Conference Room at Campbellford Memorial Hospital, starting Tuesday, September 5. There will be seven evenings in total, from 7:30 -9 p.m. - the last one being October 5. The registration fee of $95 covers covers materials, refresh. course materials, refresh-ments and the instructors fee.

Smoking is one of the major risk factors leading to heart disease and stroke.

This course has been effctive in assisting many people to delete this factor from their lives forever. Registration can be made at the Bank of Montreal, with the deadline being August 31.

being August 31.

An ongoing segment of the public education committee is the Blood Pressure Screening Clinic. This is a confidential, free screening with the results beng forwarded to the Iclient's doctor. Volunteer registerd nurses and registered nursing assistants staff this clinic on a regular basis. A wide variety of information and educational material is available at no charge as well. Hypertension is another definite risk factor which can lead to heart disease and stroke. However, it is very

Further details on this event will be released as this event will be released as they become final.

The publice education committee will be meeting in September to investigate the possibility of presenting a "Heart to Heart" program in this area. This is a series of evenings which are provided for the heart attack survivor, or the coronary bypass patient and their spouses or a friend. The subjects covered offer support and advice on such subjects as diet, exercise, stress and medications. Cardiopulmonary Resusita-tion Courses are still being offered through the inservice department at Campbellford Memorial Hospital. There is a modest fee for this course. REFOREST PROGRAM

To many, spring may appear far away, but the LTRCA is already preparing for their 1990 tree planting season. According to Randy Vilneff,

According to Randy Vineti, Water Management Supervi-sor, 95,000 trees have been allocated for the 1990 season. The reforestation program is part of the Authority's Conser-vation Services Program and provides Landowners with the provides landowners with the opportunity to put submargi-nal lands back into production. Landowners, municipalities and other organized groups within the jurisdiction of the LTRCA are eligible to partici-

Tree seedlings, obtained from the provincial tree nurseries at a cost of 7.5 cents, are hand or machine planted by LTRCA field crews in areas 1 10 acres (.4 - 4 hectares) in size. The charge for planting is 7.5 cents per tree with a mini-

7.5 cents per tree with a minimum charge of $100.00.
Authority technical staff work closely with each applicant to ensure that the species selected are suitable for the planting site conditions.
Vilneff also stresses the importance of properly preparing the planting site. In some instances, site preparation such as cultivation and weed spraying must be done every year in advance to ensure a good survival rate for the trees. the trees

In addition to providing direct benefits to the landowor reforested areas help to improve the general condition of the watershed by reducing the rate of overland runoff and soil crossion.

A variety of trees including White and Red Pine, White and Norway Spruce, White Cedar, Red Oak, Silver Maple, Black Locust, Poplar and White Ash are available this year. Under the conditions of the program the landowner is responsible for the continued management of the plantation, including its protection from soil erosion.

The Intrepid Cottager

by Craig Nicholson

(c. 1989 All Rights Reserved)
The wife really likes a good barbecue. That's because what makes it good is that I do all the work. I stand out on the deck with the swarming mosquitos, or pouring rain or begging dogs, slowly turning myself into smoked meat while the wife and guests chat, laugh and have a merry old time inside. I find every excuse to get back in to join the party, but someone always yells "Fire!" and they all look at me like I'm a leper, so I feel obliged to go out again to see if anything on the grill still looks edible.

The odds aren't good, considered and the stirt flerers and fire edible.

The odds aren't good, considering foot-high flames and fire extinguisher residue. Also, I'm a horrible chef. But I approach it professionally. I have all the tools, the books, the apron, the hat and mitts. And I'v taken courses. Even one given by the fire department.

courses. Even one given by the fire department.

My theory is that the essence of barbecuing harkens back to cave men squatting around a fire pit. There's a certain macho spirti in the hunt, the chase, the kill and the feast. Who cares if the meat is dirty, bloody, hairy or all hacked up that's what burning is for. Cave women must have stuck Cave women must have stuck to roots and berries, because their contemporaries prefer salad and fruit to my burnt,

It's crowded around the barbecue. The dogs are always laying right where I need to stand. Then there's the loose shelf hanging off each end, plus the table and deck railing I use for my array of tools, condiments, spices, sauces, dishes and emergency supplies. With a drink in one hand, I use the other to wield an oversize spatula to swat flies and flip meat.

I never remember to clean

flies and flip meat.

I never remember to clean
the grills, but that's fine because the crusty build up narrows the spaces through which pieces usually fall to burn faster than the rest. I'm always mining around the coals for some lost morsel.

And that's more difficult now that smoking's all the rage-

And that's more difficult now that smoking's all the rage-mesquite chips or hickory chips scattered on top of the coals-each with its own delicate aroma. I prefer pressboard chips from the old outhouse; they are free and there's so much smoke I can't smell anything anyways. For some reason the smoke always blows in my face.

My automatic starter has never worked properly, especially when I run out of propane. Condensation is supposed to show the level in the tank, but I've poured a whole bucket of cold water over it and I can never predict when it will be empty. So I barbecue fast. On high. Standing in my puddle of water.

The cave men were more comfortable.

comfortable.

My lid won't stay up and gets stuck when it's down. The handle comes off in my hand. One side is cool, the other is Hades. If I flip my spatula too hard, the meat disappers down a gaping maw or over the deck rail into the sand. If I do squish a fly with it, I either have to wipe it off on my pant leg or the meat and I prefer clean clothes.

If I do cook without fare-up If I do cook without fare-ups for 10 or 15 minutes, then I'll slip inside for 30 seconds to get a refill and return to the towering inferno. Out comes my trusty spray bottle to drench the flames with water and send great billowing smoke signals to whatever tribes may be in the area. Everyone is so surprised that my barbecuing always tastes steamed. steamed.

The wife wants me to barbecue all the time. I don't know way--she never eats meat. But I oblige, even in the dead of winter, when the barbecue is set up in the boat house with all the doors open. I can't quite picutre those cave men huddled in the dark cookmen nuddled in the dark cook-ing in sub-zero temperatures. I bet they settled for roots and berries. And they didn't have life jackets that smelled like teriyaki sauce the next

Barbecuing in the rain in the most trying. That's because I'm tryig to hold my drink, spatual and umbrella simultaneously. And the rain never starts until after I get every-thing on the grill. Then I'll hear the wife from the kitchen: "Honey, it's raining out!". She lets the dogs in and I stand there dripping wet with soggy meat.

The best part of barbecuing is that I can hide all my mistakes. Cheap cut? Burn it. Too much sand? Burn it. Fly remnants? Burn it. By careful manipulation of the three degrees of burning, I can make everything look and test the same. Smother it' in garlic sauce, or tabasco or teriyakit or sweet and sour-or if it's a lost cause, all of them-the guests will either not notice or not eat. Those who order theirs rare were a problem until I realized that a dog can lick meat just as clean as a flame.

When the meat's black enough that I know it's done, it's time for the grand entrance. I flip it onto a platter and pick up the pieces on the ground. Then I yell: "Ready!" and march to the dining room much other food that I have to clear space. The wife always makes so much I don't now why I brother barbecuing.

Then like my cave man ancestors I sit down in my own wild feast. The hunt, the chase, the kill, the.... The wife interupts my revery: "Honey, when are you going to barbecue something other than hot

Making computer technology work for you

"I thought this new system was supposed to give us more accuracy, lexibility and better information flow, it keeps telling me, 'Try again better luck next time!'"

In today's highly competi-tive business world, the computer offers your firm significant gains in accuracy, flexibility, elimination of repe-titive tasks and improved information flow.

information flow

The good news is that the cost of computing power is decreasing as its usefulness increases. Manufacturers are at last beginning to design their machines according to agreed upon industry standards. Instead of being locked into one vendor, you can increasingly link together products from different manufacturers and create a "mix 'n match" system tailored to your needs. your needs.
This lets you project your future computing needs and periodically add new hardware or software in a building block, incremental fashion. This way, incremental fashion. This way, your system will grow comfortably with your company.

Finding a solution that fits your needs shouldn't be difficult, particularly if you're a manufacturer. There is a wide range of proven affordable computer-based technologies available. Of these, computer-aided design and computer-aided manufacturing (CAD). CAM) and robotics probably offer the most significant

"More powerful CAD systems can store a complete mathematical description of your product," says Tony mathematical description of your product," says Tony Spoore, business development manager at the Ontario Centre for Advanced Manufacturing. "That information can be used to produce a control program that allows numerically-controlled machine tools to create your product. The information captured in any CAD database can also be used in many other downstream areas of your operation, such as process, inventory and manufacturing requirements plan-ning, as well as shipment scheduling."

scheduling."

According to a study quoted in the Ontario government's recently published State of Small Business 1988 report, small "pick and place" robots and other more elaborate versions are being used by about 35% of the manufacturing firms survayed useally for ing firms surveyed, usually for feeding and removing parts about 35% of the manufacturing firms surveyed, usually for feeding and removing parts from automated processes. The report also shows that smaller companies spend a higher percentage of their income on R&D than do larget firms. But they are lagging large business in almost al areas of applying advancet technology, except in the cass of numerical and compute numerical control machines Most are concentrating of automating single machines Yet, by linking these islands o information, they stand to make major gains.

In another survey, only 23% of small firms are using CAI but many plan to add numerical control machines, CAD an robots over the next five year. The most frequently cite reasons for this slow rate cadoption are lack of a satisfactory method of performin cost-benefit analyses and shortage of trained operators. To help offset this skill shortage, the Ontario Ministr of Skills Development has sup the Technicans and Tecnologists - Skills Updatin program. In the interest of girl's hockey

by Janice Pinke

This year the Madoc Minor Hockey Association is looking for girls between the ages of 12 and 16 from Madoc, Marmora, Stirling or Tweed to play on a road team.

Morley Perrie and Rick Deering are organizing the first ever girls hockey team to be formed within Madoc's minor hockey association.

Rick's daughter, Marcie Deering, 13, played on Madoc's pee wee boys hockey team last year. An active hockey player, Marcie is considering the pros-pect of going to play on a girls hockey team in Belleville if a team cannot be formed here in the north the north.

Last year there was a girls hockey team playing out of the closure of their arena Havelock still has a girls hockey team out their arena.

Any interested girls should call Morley Perrie at 473-4634 or Rick Deering at 473-4877 and have their name, date of birth and phone number ready. If enough interest is shown registration will be taken along with boys at the Madoc minor hockey registrations. A date and time is yet to be set for registrations - read this newspaper

Moira Lake property owners angry

MOE breaches provisions governing Madoc lagoon

by Janice Pinke

Out of 101 lakes tested by the Ministry of the Environment (MOE) in southeastern Ontario in 1987 Tweed's Stoco Lake and our Moira Lake were ranked numbers two and three of the top ten worst test.

* Sixty-five million (yes, million) tonnes of effluent (sewage) were released into the Moira Lake from the Madoc lagoon in the Spring of this year. A flushing of the lagoon is again planned for November.

These startling facts were made public at this year's annual meeting of the Moira Lake Property Owners Associ-ation held at the Kiwanis Centre last Saturday morning, August 12th

* Moira Lake property owners have some type of septic system (ie. septic tank, outhouse). They don't dump it into the lake.

* Taking 20 days to flush, the lagoon, this year, finished the flushing process on May 19th. Four days later the Moira River Conservation Authority (MRCA) replaced the dam at the east basin of the lower lake giving the effluent only four days to make its way through the upper and lower lakes of the Moira and down into the Moira River. Replacing the dam meant this process is nearly extinct and that most of the lagoon's effluent remains in the Moira Lake.

Moira River. Replacing the dam meant this process is nearly extinct and that most of the lagoon's effluent remains in the Moira Lake.

* There are approximately 320 property owners on Moira Lake making this population larger than Madoc Village itself. However, said one Moira Lake property owner, "we have to construct and utilize a septic system ourselves; we don't get to dump it into that lake."

* Present at the meeting Saturary morning, was Glen Owens.

* Present at the meeting Saturary morning, was Glen Owens.

from the MOE. Owens replied "yes" when confronted with the fact that the provisions governing the lagoon were breached this year.

* Up until 1973 (when the lagoon was installed) Madoc Village had no effective waste management system, thus snowballing the effects of the effluent over the past three or four decades in the Moira Lake according to Glen Owens of the MOE.

What all these points mean is that property owners on Moira Lake are angry. They want something done to clean up the lake and make sure that what happened this year (release of lagoon and closure of dam four days apart) does not happen days apart) does not happen again. "Ideally" said Randy Berry, President of the Moira Lake Property Owners Association and a property owner on Moira Lake, "we would like to see the Madoc lagoon restricted from emptying into the lake". "Since this is not possible we would like to see the lagoon enlargen and the lagoon released only once a year in the fall." "This would give the effluent eight months year in the fall." "This would give the effluent eight months to clear from the lake." Because of an "explosion of aquatic plant life" (weeds) in the Moira Lake, property owners have been forced to clean their waters themselves or live with it or live with it to look at ways of cleaning up to look at ways of cleaning up the explosion of weeds in the lake. The committee will determine what government agencies could provide funding for such a program. A weed harvester owned by three property owners on the lake, Bruce Whiteman, Ken Barnett and John Fraser, was offered by Whiteman and Barnett as part of the solution if neces-sary. Ken Joyce has also been in touch with a company called Aquamate in Oakville who run a harvester and do work on Rice Lake. There price is $750 per acre. Ken says that any property owners interested in utilizing the Aquamate harves-ter this year should contact him as they are not fully booked and could possibly be commissioned in this fall.

Watch for Moira Lake updates in this paper.

Madoc Township's Andrea Peters off to Canada Games

by Janice Pinke

Andrea Peters left this past Monday, August 14th, for a training camp in Kitchener before leaving for the Canada Games in Saskatoon on the

The Canada Games, which began August 14th, end on the 26th.

Andrea was selected to play on the Ontario team at the beginning of July after attend-ing a camp designed to do just that. She was named most valuable player in the round robin this past weekend at the Midget Nationals. The team which she was playing on 'Chinguacousy' from Bramp-ton won the National title.

Andrea will return to Madoc at the end of August.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor, In the past few weeks the County of Hastings FLATLY TURNED DOWN, DROPPED a motion for a bylaw to have 3.5 gal per minute of potable water as a condition of sever-ence. This decision affected the six lower Townships of Hastings County including Huntingdon Township.

In the spring of this year, Huntingdon Township passed a similar bylaw also making 3.5

similar bylaw also making 3.3 gal per minute of potable water a condition of severence. DO WE UNDERSTAND WHAT THIS MEANS? 3.5 gal per minute is the abproximate equivilent of 5000 gal of water equivilent of 5000 gal of water-per day?

To consider one Huntingdon resident's dilema; this person wants to severe a lot with a well recently drilled at 321' deep. It holds 200' of water at any time (equivilent to the total daily usage of water for a given day as to County statis-tics, avg.) but the flow is only 2-2.5 gal per minute.

This resident has more than adequate volume of water to adequate volume of water to supply his household for years to come. However his FLOW RATE does not meet this bylaws 3.5 gal per minute. His severence would not be allowseverence would not be allow-ed to proceed until he produces the 3.5 gal per minute, no matter how much volume of water his has available. LET'S REVIEW WHAT IS GOING ON!

GOING ON!

1. County level feels this bylaw is wrong and detrimental to the Townships and residents affected by this bylaw. THEY DROPPED IT!

2. Four out of five Hunting-

2. Four out of five Hunting-don councillors. (including Reeve) also feel their bylaw should be DROPPED! Vernon Cooney, Walton Reid, and Bill Rollins were all quite verbally in favor of dropping the bylaw in effect. Reeve Owen Ketche-son remarked loud and clear This bylaw should be thrown ut... in favor of removing it completely

THEN WHY IS THIS EYLAW STILL HERE?

 Vernon Cooney and Walton Reid are in conflict of interest because they have severences pending conditions of this bylw and can not vote.

2. Bill Rollins is willing to make the motion to drop the bylaw and Owen is willing to support it. BUT

3. Ted Pollock is not in favor

3. Ted Pollock is not in favor of dropping it and seems more interested in his own personal circumstances and not clearly in my mind representing the will of the majority and therefore Bill Rollin's motion would not have a seconder and this matter will remain in limbo.

In closing, we the concerned residents of Huntingdon Town-

residents of Huntingdon Township hope that:

1. Ted Pollock will consider County Councils wisdom in dropping the same bylaw.

2. the opinions and arguments of ALL other members of council who agree this bylaw should be dropped.

3. and the comments and arguments of all those residents who attended the Aug. 9/89 council meeting, who agreed with both County and all other councillors to drop this bylaw. this bylaw

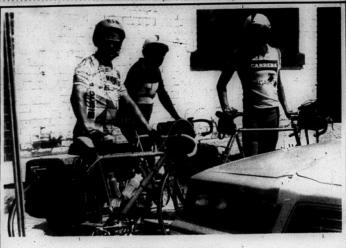

I hope anyone pro or con to this bylaw will pick-up your phone and call Ted Pollock and come to the next council meet-ing on Aug. 23/89 at Ivanhoe Hall, 7:30 p.m.

With no predjudice or malice,

Sincerely, Bill Allen

Third accident in a month at highways 7 & 62

Last Friday morning there was yet another accident at the intersection of highways 7 and This makes three accidents in so many weeks.

Speaking to many of the areas residents this reporter found the feelings to be mixed, some residents feel that motorists are just careless and

don't pay enough attention when approaching and crossing the intersection; while others feel there is a need for some kind of restructuring (ie. traffic lights, overpass) at the intersection.,

At the July 25th regular meeting of Madoc Village council a motion was carried which said "that the Minister of Transportation Ontario with copy to our local MPP be advised of our concern for safety at highway number 7 and number 62 and that MTO should be in the preliminary planning stages for an east/ west overpass with turn lanes and ramping and that in the interim provide intersection controlled access stop lights".

Hastings & Prince Edward Counties study to define needs of seniors

by Janice Pinke

by Janice Pinke
Last Tuesday, August 8th, marked the beginning of a massive volunteer effort by the Hastings and Prince Edward Council on Aging to interview 600 seniors in Hastings and Prince Edward Counties. Over 15 teams of volunteers have been organized and are being trained to carry out the needs study. All interviews will be strictly confidential and the volunteer interviewers have signed an oath of signed an oath of confidentiality. In Madoc, Kay Peacock of the Community Resource

Project, has managed to recruit five volunteers (seniors) to conduct these interviews for the 'Needs Identification Study'

Sterling Warner, Chairman of the Needs Identification Committee of the Hastings and Prince Edward Council On Prince Edward Council On Aging indicated that "we want to ensure that we know the needs of local seniors. In this way the Council On Aging can develop a strategic plan that will help develop services to meet these needs".

The local consulting firms of Beckett, Kitcher Consultants Corp. together with Terry Cassidy from Critical Issues have been contacting volunhave been contacting volun-treers and providing training to them this past month. The volunteers, many of whom are seniors, live throughout the two counties and reflect the interest from all parts of the overall area. Every township, town, village and city will have seniors that will be interviewed.

WHAT HAPPENS WHEN IT'S OVER

Once the study is completed according to Sterling Warner, the Council On Aging will approach the individual councils hoping they will implement - whenever possible those needs disclosed in the 'Needs' study.

However, before the Needs Identification Study (which is being funded by the Ministry of Social Services) is over, the committee is arranging general meetings open to all persons and all ages who might want to add their input to the study who weren't interviewed. None of the meetings have been scheduled but Terry Cassidy told the Review that Madoc can expect theirs sometime between mid-Sentember and between mid-September and mid-October.

Another purpose of the volunteer interview process is to identify seniors who need services or wish to volunteer in the community. These seniors will then be put in touch with the appropriate services or

"Each city, town, village and rural community in the area has a different profile, and the seniors will have somewhat different needs in the future," Dr. Beckett said. "Some areas may see the development of a senior citizen home as the highest priority, while others may see the need for improved health services."

services." The interview will ask questions about education and employment for seniors; housing, health, transportation, social services, family, volunteering, culture, recreation, and community organization.

Watch for upcoming 'general meeting' announcements in this paper. For more information your contact is-Sterling Warner at 478-5626:

Madoc to Belleville

Local not long distance

As reported in this paper earlier this year Bell Canada's forecasts say that this service should be incorporated for Madoc subscribers sometime in 1992.

First though, Madoc's Bell Canada subscribers will have to fill out and return a survey to Bell which is scheduled for mail delivery here by the end of this year says Kim McCann, Manager of Bell's Belleville business office.

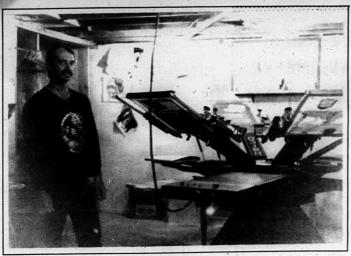

However, nothing in life is ever free including the Madoc to Belleville service - that is what the survey is for - to see if subscribers are willing to absorb an increase in loca rates to make up for the long distance charges Bell Canada will lose.

will lose.

The survey will be mailed apart from your monthly bil says Kim and depending on the results of the survey this service should be incorporated into Bell's system sometime in 1992, subject to change depending on survey results.

Already surveyed, Tweet residents in the 478 exchange can expect local dialing capability to Belleville by the third quarter of 1999.

Signs of the times

by Janice Pinke
Last time this headline appeared in the Review it was presented by this reporter as a criticism aimed at Madoc's council and Madoc's residents for their obvious lack of pride in the signs announcing our "progressive town" of Madoc.

"progressive town" of Madoc. As we all now know the signs have been upgraded and Nicholas Nikiforuk of Niki Graphics has always felt that Madoc was a "progressive town" and the new signs being posted in and around Madoc Village by the business community are definitely recognition of this. Nicholas and Niki Graphics

Nicholas and Niki Graphics was most widely recognized recently when he did the windows for Pat's Ice Cream Parlour, thus, capping the renovations there. To follow was Crystal Beach and The Country Shoppe on highway 62 just north of highway 7. He donated the banner (which hung over Madoc's four corners announcing this as the home of future NHL star Steve home of future NHL star Steve Bancroft) to the Madoc Minor Hockey Association and Nicholas is responsible for the 'Maduck' slogan recently seen on local T's and sweats. Nicholas and his wife Janet moved to Madoc from Etobicoke in May 1988 for business reasons. They wanted to expand but overhead costs in Toronto made this idea seem Toronto made this idea seem financially unrealistic as Nicholas maintains his quality by doing all of his work - not by mass producing.

Nicholas says their decision to move to Madoc came to them after they had toured the village and were shown through the house they now live in just south of Madoc.

Parade of lights for world peace on anniversary of Hiroshima

On Friday, August 5th, the 44th anniversary of Hiroshima, the Lester B. Pearson Peace Park in Actinolite held, an 'Act of Atonement' for the bombing of Hiroshima.

The main speaker was Dr. Madan L. Handa, author of the 'Gospel of Peace' and professor at the Ontario Institute for

Studies in Education, University of Toronto. He congratulated the local persons on their vision in setting up a peace park in a peace loving country like Canada which is the only one of its kind in Canada or perhaps in North America.

In his address Dr. Handa said "an Act of Atonement is the first step, then comes forgiveness, then comes enlightenment and enlighten-ment is the way to world peace".

He also everyessed an inter-peace".

He also expressed an interest in obtaining one of the one acre lot sites which the peace park had set aside for any religious group, the first of which is where the peace pagodo shrine is located.

Those who attended had picnic lunch at 6 p.m. at the top of the hill where the mother's shrine and the peace pagoda shrine are located.

At 9 p.m. all those who attended went to the entrance gate to the peace park on highway 7 and were given candles which were lighted and a procession went from there to the peace pagoda shrine and at the peace pagoda went three times around each tier for prayers and meditation - that wars would reign throughout the world.

THE BUSINESS OF INVENTION

Each centre represents a joint initiative of the provincial government and the municipality in which it is located. A consultant is on site to provide entrepreneurs with advice on start-up financing and the preparation of a business plan. Guide books, computer support and a quiet work area are also among the resources available to help turn good ideas into sound business ventures. For more information, call the toll-free Small Business Hotline at 1-800-387-6142.

My invention just took off!

Scattered across the province, in their basement or back-yard, hundreds of people are puttering away trying to invent the proverbial better mousetrap.

Often they noticed a problem at work or around the house and think they've found a and think they've found a solution.

But by the time they've actually got the idea sketched out, and sometimes even built a few prototypes, they're so in love with their invention that they've lost any trace of objectivity about it's real merits and success in the marketplace.

They's where a few govern-

That's where a few govern-ment initiatives come in ment initiatives come in handy.

"We've seen them all. From computers and electronioc gadgets to retailing ideas and practice putting devices," says Donna Hewitt, a senior marketing analyst at the federally sponsored Canadian Industrial Innovation Centre, in Waterloo. "Most come from private inventors but we also get ideas inventors, but we also get ideas from small companies and from small companies and universities."

The centre offers a two-stage assesment. First, the invention is studied for its basic merits. Does it work? What's the chance for legal or patent protection? Seventy per cent of inventors are advised at this point "don't proceed," The remaining 30 per cent go on to a more advanced evaluation stage.

Since its inception in 1976, the Canadian Industrial Innoune canadian industrial inno-vation Centre has looked at more than 4,500 inventions. "It's never dull here, inventors are a great bunch of people to work with, even if it takes a lot of patience sometimes," says Hewitt

Hewitt.
After the invention stage, the decision to go into production is often when the work really begins, particularly when it comes to raising funds for product development and deciding on manufacturing Inventors have the following options: they can make their product themselves, find a business partner, sell the business partner, sell the rights to their product outright or develop a licensing arrange-ment with a suitable manufacturer.

manufacturer.

Other areas to be investigated are the relative merits of applying for a copyright on something written, a trademark or a brand name, a patent on something that is a novel physical design, or registering the appearance of a product as an industrial design.

design.

Also inventors tend to have a strong technical background and many are good at marketing anf management skills to develop a viable enterprise.

This is where the Ministry of Industry, Trade and Technology's thirteen small business self-belp centres across the province enter the picture.

by Nigel Bruce and Jim Hunt College of Physical Science, University of Guelph Scientific literacy is a term that has been coined to indi-cate sufficient familiarity with cate sufficient familiarity with science to enable a person to participate meaningfully in a discussion on the many modern issues that involve science and technology. Some of the issues confronting modern society are fluoridation of drinking water, stratospheric ozone, and the generation of electricity should we be using nuclear power, wind power, coal or hydro power?

There is currently much concern in the western industrialized world that the citizenry is so Ill-informed about science that they are not able to understand and partici-pate in the formuniation of policies in matters that affect everyone.

At a recent meeting of the American Association for the Advancment of Science in San Francisco, Dr. Jon Miller of Northern Illinois University Northern Illinois University presented results of a survey. Members of the general public were asked questions to test their understanding of the basic vocabulary of science, the methods used in scientific investigations, and the impact of science and technology on society Some of technology on society. Some of the questions were identical to some of those used in a parallel study in Britain, allowing a measure of comparison of the level of scientific literacy between the united States and Britain.

Science literacy

Britain.

As Dr. Miller points out, there is a large element of subjectivity in assessing the nebulous concept of scientific literacy. In one sense, there is continuum of skill and ability ranging from zero (no skill or knowledge) to the most soophisticatd scientific knowledge. In another, there is a threshold of scientific literacy that is difficult for citizens to threshold of scientific interacy that is difficult for citizens to go beyond. Where that threshold is to be set depends on a subjective evaluation. The level of the threshold presumably depends on place and tome. In other words, what is needed for political participa-tion in Canada will almost certainly be much more than what is requires of the average citizen in a Third World agri-cultural society.

cultural society.

Dr. Miller's assessment is that in both the United States and the United Kingdon, fewer than 10 per cent of the citizens can be classed as scientifically literate. These results are similar to those reached in surveys going back to 1979. He pointed out that an individual who does not comprehend basic terms like atom, molecule. cell. gene gravity and pasic terms like atom, mole-cule, cell, gene,gravity and radiation will be unable to follow almost any discussion involving a scientific problem or policy issue. Here are some of the s ments and questions su participants were asked respond to. You might lift try them.

Farmers look to marketing oats

Some Canadians farmers are making a successful go of marketing theit oats south of the border. The key, they say, is top quality combined with solid marketing.

For farmer Richard Nords-trom of Viking, Alta., packing for holidays in the United States includes stuffing some oats into the suitcase. Last fall Mr. Nordstrom took some oat samples along on a trip to Washington state. He was testing the waters for marketing his own oats in the U.S. and said the response was positive.

U.S. and said the response was positive.

But the market is a demanding one. "you have to have high quality oats to be able to market them." However if the oats are high-quality, there is opportunity to sell directly to buyers.

This fall, Mr.Nordstrom plans to visit Minneapolis and Pennsylvania, and he will be taking some oats along again.

Before farmers even have

Before farmers even have oats to sell, the quality must be there. On/ his own farm, Mr. Nordstrom has cut his oats acreage back this year to ensure good management of the crop. He grew about 265 acres last year and this year seeded just 155 to try to get the highest quality possible. If the crop is top-quality this year, he may go as high as 450 acres next year.

Steps he has taken include next year.

Steps he has taken include increasing the seeding rate and using a half to two-thirds of his total fertilizer for the oats as a liquid stater with the seed. Mr. Nordstrom has been doing that for the last two or three years and keeping good records. He also top-dresses the oats crops with nitrogen at different stages of growth to increase protein. increase protein.

Last year, he grew his plumpest and heaviest crop yet. Cleaned, it yielded 49-50 lbs/bu.and was over 90 per cent plump. The combine setting used in harvesting the crop allowed some of the lighter grain to filter out the back of the machine, contributing to a higher final weight.

This kind of attention to quality is time consuming. But quality is time consuming. But buyers and sellers agree it's the approach necessary to break into U.S. niche markets.

"The biggest problem now is that oats is still thought of as a last resort type of crop," said Bill Plumley, an oats buyer at Gibbons, Alta.

Oats is often the last crop farmers seed in the spring as a feed crop, he said. It is often poorly fertilized and grown on land which was previouly seeded with crops that cause problems in oats. Mr. Plumley said farmers who want to sell to high-quality oats markets to high-quality oats markets are beginning to realize that oats has to be managed better.

Alfalfa persistence

Alfalfa, because of its high-yielding ability, its excellent quality and its good seasonal distribution of yield, is gener-ally regarded as basic to a strong forage program on most Ontario farms. Alfalfa is a true perennial plant, and has been known to live for eight years or more, although alfalfa stands thin out badly at least the third production year. A number of thin out badly at least the third production year. A number of factors may be involved in causing the alfalfa to die out. Poor soil drainage can cause many problems, and there are two major reasons why alfalfa dies out under poor drainage. Often low areas are subject to flooding during winter thaws, followed by ice formation and smothering of the alfalfa. In wet soils alfalfa is much more subject to heaving during late

Alfalfa does not grow well on acid soils. If the PH drops below 6.0,liming is recommended to correct the acidity problem. A low potassium level in the soil is one of the major factors leading to loss of alfalfa from a/stand. This is particularly true on loam and sandy-loam soils which usually sandy-loam solis which usually need added potassium. If there is not enough potassium to adequately go around grasses will obtain theri requirements while alfalfa goes short

Forage stands should be soil sampled regularly and the recommended fertilizer applied each year before the September rest period to prevent plant losses due to a lack of potassium. Alfalfa plants low in potassium show characteristic deficiency symptoms, which appear as white dots in a crescent shape around the margin of the leaflets. In mixed alfalfa-grass stands, alfalfa can be forced out of the land by applications of nitrogen fertilizer. Nitrogen

mixture while providing no advantage to the alfalfa.

Manure applications on alfalfa-grass stands will have the same effect as that produced by nitrogen fertilizer especially if the rates are above ten tonnes per hectare. For good winter survival, the root reserves must be built up in alfalfa roots going into winter. This usually requires six weeks of growth prior to the first hard frost which stops alfalfa growth. In this area it is recommended that alfalfa not be cut during the September 1st to Oct. 10th period. Harvesting alfalfa during the rest period is probably the most common cause of alfalfa winterkill. Past farm experience has shown that continual pasturing of alfalfa is very hard on persistence.

Septics are a great mystery.
I was told that one came with

I never did know where it was.

came up.
When I was a kid, our cottage had an outhouse where I got bit or frozen depending on the season. It was not a mystery. It was just a place that stank, where creepy things took advantage of me and I didn't want to drop any subtable. There was never a valuables. There was never a line up, at least not of people. This place has an outhouse

This place has an outnouse too. Fire engine red and used for storing junk. But now I had septic problems and more pressing needs. The wife refused to use it, having sworn off outhouses after a horse tried to enter one she was occupying. So I called for help. The operator said it was not a 911 emergency. But then she

I stated the problem: "It won't flush!", and he asked where it was. "Floating in the bowl," I replied, "Oh, you mean the septic! What does it look like?" He said it was flat and rectangular and buried nold abandoned cemetery or my septic I was supposed to find?

a sledge and proceeded to aerate the lawn. The idea was to drive the rod into the earth until it hit something and then mark the outline of the tank, or casket or my foot. He said the trap would be on the top near the house.

I outlined something too big to be my foot or a casket unless it was a double and started to it was a double and started to dig. Finally, I unearthed the trap and called him back. He said that he'd be right out with the honey wagon. I couldn't figure out what bees had to do with it, but kept my mouth shut with it, but kept my modul salur for once.

The "wagon" turned out to be a large tanker with a long lose and vacuum pump; the "honey" was what was pumped. It made me eternally sucpicious of highway signs saying "Honey For Sale." And of what the wife means when she uses that endearment on me.

This episode got me thinking about septic systems. Like most new cottagers I took mine granted and didn't even know if I had one or if it worked properly. But I expected my water to be clean for swimming and drinking. The septic was buried and so were my worries.

Not good enough.

I expected an antiquated system to handle the increasing needs of a larger family, or simply to keep on working forever. I put all manner of household chemicals, cleaners and soaps down our cottage drains, never thinking that these will kill the very batericate the make the sentic process. that make the septic process funtion properly. I sipped my lemonade while I polluted my soil and water.

It cost a few bucks to remedy and that was painful both because it was cash spent on because it was cash spent on something invisible—not like a new deck or a ski boat—and because I had to use that stupid red outhouse again for a week. The wife said she had never rubbed calomine lotion there

The septic had already been pumped and fixed and I was on another diet, so it couldn't be full again already. A neighbour suggested frozen pipes, although even country neigh-bourliness has its limits and he didn't volunteer to help. discovered why.

There was a nut where the drain pipe went into the wall and outside. I couldn't see any alternative but to unscrew this and see what was what. What and see what was what. What was a flood of backed up water that was about five gallons more than the one gallon bucket I was holding. I peered into the exit pipe with a flashlight. It was frozen solid.

The next four hours involved a red hot poker, a hair dryer, boiling water, an ice pick and muttered curses. The wife said it reminded her of my barbecuing. I did finally get the pipe unblocked, resealed and in service. The next spring, I dug up the pipe and insulated it.

Aside from the ground hog which ate some, to keep his drains working, I suppose, I have had no more septic problems. Just in case, I replanted iems. Just in case, I replanted the area over the trap with a flower bed. It sits there in the middle of the lawn like the gardener died, but I'll never have to search for the septic again. The rules about drinking

Before drinking alcohol outside a home or licensed establishment, Ontario residents should be sure they understand the liquor laws involved, officials warm.

For example, it's legal to drink at a private backyard barbecue, but not at a picnic in occasion permit has been isssued.

occasion permit has been issued.

Although better informed about the dangers and legal risks of impaired driving, many consumers are still unfamiliar with other alcohol-related laws and can easily make costly mistakes, says Len Griffiths of the Ontario Liquor Licence Board (LLBO). "For instance, most people know it's illegal to drink in a car, but are surprised to find out it's even an offence to carry an open bottle within reach," Griffiths says.

The Liquor Licence Act states open bottles transported in motor vehicles must be stored out of reach of the driver and passengers. As the term "out of reach" is open to interpretation, use common sense and err on the side of caution, advises Griffiths.

"It's better to be safe, in case the police stop you," he says. "Put it in the trunk or in locked up luggage; somewhere it's not going to arouse suspicions."

The Licence Act is quite specific about the locations where actual consumption is permitted. Outside of establishments licensed by the LLBO the only place you can legaly drink is in and around a residence.

In addition to actual houses, a residence can be a tent, trailer, motor home, houseboat, or any other dwelling equipped and in use for over-night stays.

"So, as long as the place where you are camping doesn't have any special bans on alco-hol, it is legal to drink in and around your tent trailer or hol, it is legal to drink in and around your tent, trailer or whatever you are using as a dwelling." Griffiths says. "Just don't go wandering down the trail with a drink in your hand. It's only legal in the immediate area around your residence."

The usual fine for illegal transport or consumtpion of alcohol in a public place is $53. There's a bit of a twist for boaters, says Gerry Conroy of the Ontario office of the Attorney General. According to Conroy, even a boat equipped for sleeping and food preparation is only considered a residence when it is moored for the night.

"You can't just pull over to the side, throw the anchor out and have a beer," says Staff Sergeant Larry Smith of the OPP.

It is also illegal to drink in public view on boats, even fine.

If impaired the driver would face one of three charges, Conroy says. These include "impaired", "failure to blow", (take a breathalyser test) and blowing over 80 mg per cent (having more than 80 mg of alcohol in 100 ml of blood.)

The penalties are the same mg of alcohol in 100 ml of blood.)

The penalties are the same for all three charges.

"A lot of people think "blowing over" is all there is... but you don't even have to be asked to take a breathalyser test to get charged with impaired," says Conroy.

The minimum penalty for a first offence is a fine of $300, a one-year suspension of driving privileges and a criminal record. Boaters would be prohibited from operating-boats for a year, although their motor vehicle licences would be unaffected.

Two time offenders get at least 14 days in jail and a two-year suspension. This applies even if one incident involved a boat and the other a car. A third offence in a five year period carries a minimum penalty of 90 days in jail car. A third offence in a five year period carries a mini-mum penalty of 90 days in jail and a three-year licence suspension.

And this is what the total lunar eclipse looked like from Madoc last Wednesday, August 16th. You won't see another one for another 40 years.

Moira Lake property owners not only ones who want to expand Madoc Village's lagoon

by Janice Pinke
Madoc's Reeve Tom Deline
says it would be to the Village's advantage to expand our lagoon because "it allows the village to expand as well".
However, Tom wants the Moira Lake property owners to do a pollution study themselves before a solution to the phosphorous filled Moira Lake can be looked at.

The Reeve's explanation for a pollution study stems from the phosphate numbers released at the annual meeting of the Moira Lake Property Owners Association (MLPOA)
at the Kiwanis Centre August 12th. Ministry of the Environment (MOE) phosphate statistics for the Moira Lake is 8000 kilograms per annum. MOE statistics say that between 160 and 180 kilograms of this is a direct result of the flushing of the lagoon into the Moira Lake.
"The remaining 7800 kilograms has to be addressed"
says Deline, thus, the reason for the pollution study.

Randy Berry, President of the MLPOA, disputes the MOE phosphates numbers from the lagoon saying that "their figures are wrong; somebody has to sit down and figure it

figures are wrong, somebody has to sit down and figure it

Madoc Village council was not represented at the property owners meeting August 12th because no invitation was received at the village offices or extended to any of the council members. "I'm disappointed they didn't invite me", says Deline "the lake is part of our economic growth".

Tom says that the lagoon is still operating within the MOE criteria. The Village is willing to look at the possibility of expanding the lagoon, allowing for only one flushing per year in November - as the property owners on the lake are considering as part of the solution. Huntingdon Township clerktreasurer Bonnie Jones has been instructed to arrange a meeting which would include besides Huntingdon Township council, representatives from Madoc Village council, the MFCA and the property owners association.

Still in the olanning stages

still in the planning stages the above meeting will be open to the public and probably won't be scheduled for a month or more says Bonnie. Bendaling the probably won't be scheduled for a month or more says Bonnie. Bendaling or more says Bonnie. Read this paper for date and time.

CORRECTION

In last week's article entitled 'Moira Lake property owners angry' it was noted that 65 million tonnes of effluent was released into the Moira Lake this past Spring. In fact its 65 million gallons. Either way it works out the same - ALOT!

Steve Bancroft leaving for Leaf's training camp

Open house announced for dance classes

by Janice Pinke
On September 6th from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. an 'open house'
has been organized by Linda Grey and the instructors of the jazz, tap and ballet classes.
To be held at the Anglican church hall on Durham Street north, the open house will give people the opportunity to met with the instructors as well as purchase your outfit. If you haven't already registered through Linda Grey of Madoc Village (473-4696) then you can do so September 6th also.

Added for adults is a dancer-size class which is not as consuming as aerobics; you exercise through dance to music. Any interested adults should call Linda or come out to the open house.

Linda says that all three classes are a go for the little ones however teens are still needed in order for their classes to commence.

That's September 6th, from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. at the Anglican church hall.

ETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor.

Bylaws are made to protect the communities for which they serve. But bylaws, like life itself, change from time to tirae and heed to be upgraded to meet new circumstances as to meet new circumstances as they arise.

One such change needed is to drop the bylaw which says you must provide 3.5 gallons of potable water per minute as a condition of severence. This bylaw, as outlined in last week's 'Letter to the Editor' is not in the best interest of Huntingdon Township residents for several important reasons.

reasons.

Take for example a person buying a lot for a future retirement residence. This seems to be quite evident from reports from several real estate people. Under this bylaw each of these severed lots would require immediate wells within one year of tentative approval from the severence board. This could mean hundreds of unnecessary wells being This could mean nundreds of unnecessary wells being drilled which may not have a drop of water tapped from them for several years. Ultimately what would happen is that these wells would eventuate. ally fill with silt and debris and could have the potential to seriously alter the vein flows seriously after the vein nows underground. Surely it would make more sense to have potential home builders protected by ensuring that they drill a well prior to obtaining a building permit when the well will be needed.

This way we can limit the building permits and have less nce with the intricate delicate balance of water veins seriously which will be seriously damaged by the conditions of

One other bylaw which needs to be reviewed is one which says that if you sever a building lot over two acres in size which is zoned as 'rural' the rezoning to 'rural residential' is not necessary; but if a building lot; is less than two acres in size and zoned 'rural', our bylaw says this property must be rezoned to 'rural residential' at an additional cost of $400. One other bylaw which needs cost of $400.

The reasoning by council for this rezoning was to use the phrasing in the description of rural residential which limited the tyre of livertee. phrasing in the description of rural residential which limited the type of livestock allowed on rural residential property. However this phrasing currently is costing each severence currently zoned as 'rural' and under two acres to the tune of $400. If it's livestock wording they need for severence under two acres; why not just adopt it under our current rural' designation. It is unfair and unjust to charge $400 as everence where this wording is all that is needed.

I hope that as you read this letter you join my cause to see a fair and just set of rules for all residents in Huntingdon Township. Let's show we care and recognize that as life itself changes, we will adapt and change with it to keen Hunting.

and recognize that as life itself changes, we will adapt and change with it to keep Huntingdon Township a progressive live, work and play.

I urge you to support my goals for the residents of Huntingdon Township by supporting me and ultimately yourselves at the next regular council meeting August 23, at 7:30 p.m. at the Ivanhoe hall.

Sincerely. Bill Allen

Project to make O'Hara sawmill operational again

The O'Hara Mill Museum Board of Management will be hosting a Family Day and Pig Roast at the mill Sunday. August 27, commencing at 1:00 p.m. The meal to be served in the late afternoon.

The proceeds of this day of music by "Country Pride", demonstrations, exhibits and contests will be going toward the restoration fund for the sawmill.

The mill was established by

The mill was established by Robert Taylor between 1823 and 1837. James O'Hara Sr. (Squire O'Hara) acquired the property in 1846 and soon sold the mill and adjacent acreage to his son James. The mill continued to saw and supplied Madoc and area until around 1906.

Recently, the mill's founda-tions were stabilized and now it is ready to have it's fascinating complex of large wooden cogs, armatures and levers re-aligned. This work will require

Mouthguards mandatory for some sports

by Janice Pinke
On Tuesday September 12th a 'Mouthguard Clinic' will be held at CHSS at 11 a.m.

Custom-made, internally-worn mouthguards will prevent most tooth and jaw injuries in contact sports. They should be used together with external protection by both boys and girls.

The clinics are arranged by the Health Unit Deptal Services Program and costs only $10 which each student must bring with them to the clinic.

Internal mouthguards are mandatory for Bay of Quinte and COSSA football and rugby and are highly recommended for all contact sports.

Quinte Crime Stoppers in co-operation with Madoc OPP are seeking assistance in solving the theft of a car stereo solving the theft of a car stereo system

A Scarborough resident left her 1980 yellow Corvetti parked at the Marmora boat launch on Wednesday, July 26th., 1989 at 5 a.m. and returned at 1 p.m. to find that it had been entered and the stereo missing.

Police report that the drivers window had been smashed, possibly to cheek to see if the vehicle was alarmed or not. The thieves then entered the passenger door by using a "slim jim" type bar, partially forcing the open window and then unlocking the door.

They removed the stereo and speakers very professionally and did not damage any other part of the vehicle while doing so. The stereo is discribed as being a "Blau Punkt" car radio with Sony speakers. Also missing is a Foscate amplification system. Police have estimated the loss at $4,000.

Witnesses told police that at 11 a.m. there was a Royal Blue van parked beside the victim's wan parked beside the victim's vehicle and the van was occupied by four males in their late 20's or early 30's. Two of the males appeared highly interested in the vehicle and even sat on it. The other two males stood around as if they were the lookouts.

If you were in the area at the time of this offence and observed this van and occupats or if you can assist police in recovering the stolen setero then Crime Stoppers would like to hear from you. Contact them at 1-969-8477 or 1-800-267-4357.

sites; bringing the number to five

by Janice Pinke
"There will be more public meetings organized" says Bob Argue, after the Centre and South Hastings Waste Management Master Plan Steering Committee appropriet south Hastings waste Management Master Plan Steering Committee announced Thursday that there are now five potential sites for consideration as a landfill site. However, these sites will not be made public until the landowners have been contacted.

Bob Argue, Recycling and Public Participation Cordinator, says that these five sites have met the absolute criteria but "what hasn't been applied is the relative criteria which is what was developed at the first public workshop".

Relative criteria takes into consideration water courses, homes, farms and safety. If walkovers of these five poten-tial properties prove these lands to be unsuitable then Proctor and Redfern will have to start questioning the abso-lute criteria.

When the roller coaster ride to find a landfill site began over a year ago consultants started with a list of 40 potential landfill sites. Out of those, eleven held promise but four were eliminated because only seven met the relative criteria. Six of that seven were eliminated only recently due to public discontent - which left one. So where did the five potential landfill sites come from which are now being examined?

Re-examined really because there was the one the consul-tants were left with and now they have added back in the four which were eliminated from the eleven months ago.

Questioning the absolute criteria if the remaining five sites are eliminated could possibly mean looking at diffe-rent lands. Potential proper-ties are currently classed from ties are currently classed from one through seven; one being the most resourceful. Consultants have been looking at lands classed five, six and seven says Bob Argue, but if these five potential sites are eliminated then consultants may be forced to look at class four lands.

FOR MADOC

"If this agriculture constraint was relaxed then it could affect Madoc but generally it would probably affect land in the south" says Argue. As for recycling Bob Argue says Madoc Village residents should have blue boxes in their homes hopefully by midwinter. Pamphlets will be delivered to you outlining the separation process a couple of weeks before recycling collection begins. Township residents have already started sorting their garbage because of the revamping of the Madoc landfill site.

Local fairs & exhibitions to get federal assistance

Bill Vankoughnet. MP for Hastings-Frontenac-Lennox & Adddington was pleased to here that after three years of consultations, the federal government has announced a new $2.5 million federal assistance policy for fairs and exhibitions allowing fair associations to better serve their communities.

Beginning April 1, 1990, any agricultural activity scheduled by a fair participating in the program will be eligible for federal assistance if it satisfies one or more of the objectives identified during the consultation process.

tion process.

The four main objectives were: marketing, technology transfer and education, training and development of rural residents, and agriculture residents, and against a sawareness. Fairs already in the program are assured continued funding over the next three years to allow them ample opportunity to enhance their activities, where needed, in order to qualify under the new criteria. The changes also include a lifting of the freeze on the eligibility of new fairs so that all fairs and exhibitions in Canada can qualify under the revised program. "This is a good example of

"This is a good example of government working together with its citizens to come up with a better plan," said Vankoughnet adding "Fair associations wanted to have flexibility built into the new arrangements and this has been achieved."

The new program's flexibility also allows a fair, once every five years, to use its entire annual federal contribution on an approved capital expenditure project, and although 50 per cent of any federal contribution must be devoted to livestock activities, organizers can request an adjustment in areas where livestock is not a major industry.

We shall behold him

At His ascension, the angels told the disciples that Jesus would return in the same way that He left. We Christians still believe that Jesus will return. Furthermore, we live each day in anticipation of that blessed event. Those without our faith may think we are strange, but that is alright. We shall still believe.

I was just reading about Fanny Crosby's life. She lost her sight when she was six weeks old. Between her and her husband, they wrote and composed over two thousand hymns! One of those hymns is Redeemed. In that hymn, Fanny makes a reference to the fact that in her present experience she senses the light (sight) of Jesus Christ's presence. Further on, Fanny looks ahead to the day she shall see, "... in His beauty the King in whose law I delight;" We can know that Jesus walks

Cancer can be beaten

Single biggest tax subsidy for Ontario farmers changed without notice

From Jim Pollock, M.P.P. Hastings-Peterborough

Ontario's farimers are angry, and with good reason. The biggest single tax subsidy they receive has been significantly changed by the provincial government, without consultation or notice. The Farm Property Tax Rebate Program has been cut by $23 million, and interim payments deferred until the fall.

ig

en be ist ne st

It couldn't come at a worse time. Many farmers were counting on this interim payment to help their local taxes. This year, municipalities have been forced to raise taxes to make up for lower transfer payments from the provincial government. Farmers now have less help to carry a heavier tax burden.

The recognition that farmers needed assistance with their municipal assessments led to the creation of the Farm Property Tax Rebate Program in the early 1970s. Rebate levels were gradually increased over the years until 1966-87, when they reached 100 per cent of the property tax paid by the land owner. The government badly underestimated the expense associated with this change, which added $55 million to the Program's price-tag. Program's price-tag.

In an attempt to control these escalating costs, the government has unilaterally changed the Program's eligibility rules.

To qualify for tax rebates in future, land owners must have farmed at least part of their property themselves. Previously, it didn't matter who farmed the land. Rebates were given to land owners who me minimum gross farm production income requirements.

This change is the govern-

This change is the govern-ment's way of escaping rebate payments to "Weekend payments to "Weekend farmers", and to large corpo-rations that hold land in specu-lation and rent it to full-time

However, it is the farmers who work these rented fields who will end up paying, when effected land owners raise rents to offset lost tax breaks.

rents to offset lost tax breaks. Since more than one-quarter of the land farmed in the province is rented, the impact on Ontario's agricultural economy could be significant. Another Program revision, the tying of tax rebates to off-farmn income, penalizes farm families for earning money from farm-related work. Activities such as planting and harvesting for work. Activities such as plant-ing and harvesting for payment, could be considered as off-farm income under the new rules. Many full-time farmers rely on this type of custom work to make ends meet.

Government officials have promised to assess the impact of Il Program changes and the $23 million cutback next year. By then, much damage is likely to have been done, and implementing reforms will be extremely difficult.

The cost and effectiveness of the Farm Property Tax

The cost and effectiveness of the Farm Property Tax Rebate Program does require careful consideration. But this review must include the views of the people most effected—the farmers.

the farmers.

Before acting on decisions that affect the livelihoods of thousands of farm families, the government should respond to requests from concerned farm organizations, and allow them to have a say in revising the Program. If the government fails to the one the assessment if fails to do so, the assessment it has planned for next year may be too late for some Ontario

The regular meeting of the Council of the Township of Huntingdon was held at the Township Hall in Ivanhoe on Wednesday, July 26, 1989 commencing at 7:30 pm. Present were Reeve Owen Ketcheson, Deputy-Reeve Ted Pollock, councillors Vernon Cooney, Walton Reid and Clerk-Treasurer Bonnie Jones. Cooney, Walton Reid and Clerk-Treasurer Bonnie Jones Robert Argue, Recycling Coordinator for the Centre & South Waste Management Master Plan attended the meeting to discuss the recycling program. Mr. Argue advised that he is conducting a survey of the needs of each municipality for the collection of recyclable materials and transportation of them to the processing centre being built in Trenton. He felt that there were many advantages to co-ordinating the pick up on a regional basis including the most efficient use of resources, case of funding and consisten-cy and co-ordination. His preli-minary estimates for Hunting-don Township's share of the program were $5500.00 for capital expenditures in the first year and $5500.00 for the cost to collect the recyclables and deliver them to the processing centre in Trenton. The cost to the municipality in the second year of operation would be for operation, only which would increase somewhat as the percentage funding from the Ministry of Environment is decreased by 10%. Mr. Argue estimated that Huntingdon Township share for the first year operation for the facility in Trenton would be $350.00. Moved by Ted Pollock and seconded by Walton Reid "That Council make a decision on the recycling program at the next regular meeting."

Council was advised that Robert Coveney, owner of Part of Lot 10 Con. 10 'has given permission to the Huntingdon Township fire Department to enter and examine his premises if the call is received by the Belleville Alarm Service and the department is paged out. The Clerk also advised Council members that informaton has been received Council was advised that paged out. The Clear has advised Council members that informaton has been received at the Villages of Stirling and Marmora Fire Departments do not invoice for false alarms. Moved by Vernon Cooney, seconded by Ted Pollock "That correspondence be forwarded to Robert Coveney thanking him for his co-operation in giving the Fire Department permission to enter his premises and further that his house key be returned as the Township does not wish to be responsible to have his key accessible to 24 fire department volunteers as well as other persons using the fire hall." Carried.

Angela Madsgaard, was born in Argentina and emigrated to Canada at the age of four. She, grew up in Toronto and obtained a B.A. from the University of Toronto. For some years, she worked for the Ontario Government, but had to retire when her health deteriorated due to Muscular Dystrophy. In 1980, Angela and her husband Karl, moved to the country near Havelock, Ontario, in order to build a wheel-chair accessible house and to enjoy a country lifestyle. Folk art came into her life in 1981 when she took a course in tole painting from Wendy Love

Angela enjoys exploring the possibilities of design within specific limitations. Since her parents came from Poland after WWII as refugees, they instilled her with a love of Polish culture. Their home was full of "wycinanki" (paper cutouts) which often feature roosters. Angela chose this as her limitation and has expanded, the design and changed the medium while still striving to maintain the spirit of the folk art form. Occasionally as a "break" she paints other birds, hearts and flowers, but always returns to the symmetrical designs that she those interested in Ankylosing Spondylitis about our association and to encourage everyone to become a part of it.

As our association grows, the more we can accomplish by banding together and voicing our concerns as a unit.

This volunteer association of Ankylosing Spondylitis patients was formed in May 1985, under the auspices of The Arthritis Society. It's goal is to provide support to all Spondylitis patients, especially those newly diagnosed, and to understand how "AS" affects their health and activities, and to provide any information that is currently available to enable patients to understand,how to look after themselves, different forms of medical treatment and general advice regarding posture, exercise, inheritance etc.

The Association is actively commencing the establish-

The Intrepid Cottager

by Craig Nicholson
(c. 1989 All Rights Reserved)
There's a big difference between hunting and trapping.
Trapping is hot sweaty exercise regardless of the catch;
hunting is relaxing on a watch until you bag a deer or a neighbor. I've never been much of a hunter, although I do own a .22 and have my share of stories.

Before the 22, I only had a pellet rifle given to me as a teen. Then, it had seemed very macho, but as I grew up it became more and more of a toy. Which I keep hidden as the guys sit around swapping hunting yarns. The wife says there'd be more hunting if there was less knitting. I said it was part of the mysterious macho ritual. Before the .22, I only had a macho ritual macho ritual.

Things changed when a porcupine ate my brake cables overnight. Then he chewed on my freshly painted red snow buggy. I grabbed my toy gun and went hunting.

and went hunting.

I found the porcupine high up a large tree when it dropped a branch on my head. It was one of those pines that is so tall it made me dizzy when I stood at the base and looked straight up. I couldn't even shoot straight. At least that's what I thought after I numed 20. straight. At least that's what I thought after I pumped 20 pellets skyward and the porcupine hadn't even moved. Either I'd killed him on the very first shot or was missing entirely. It was only after several pellets fell back on my head that I realized my toy didn't have the power to shoot to far. So I got a license and a 22.

Several nights later I heard chomping noises outside and Mrs Porcupine was about to meet his destiny. I duct taped a flashlight to the barrel of my new gun and slipped outside to listen. I heard a noise and turned on the light, illuminating my chest since I had taped it backwards.

Rather than reversing the gun, I retaped and snuck towards the sound of a very large animal chewing at the neighbors wood pile. And switched the light on again. I couldn't see anything, because couldn't see anything, because it had burnt out, but I could it had burnt out, but I could still hear eating somewhere in the chopped pine. I stood on watch for almost a half hour and didn't even see a deer. I was quiet the next day when the neighbor commented how the size bugs in the wood pile.

the neighbor commented how the pine bugs in the wood pile had kept him up all the night. He was just lucky my great pine bug hunt hadn't turned into a shooting war! I have nothing against hunt-ing except it lacks of creature comforts. None of the dead ones look comfortable to me. The deer hunt is an animal ritual around here and most neighbors take part zealously. ritual around here and most neighbors take part zealously, although I can't get excited about hunkering down in the woods for hours on end in the hope that a deer will decided to go to the store for a pack of smokes. I think wives must like it because it get husbands out of the house and makes them appreciate what they come home to.

Most guys and guys go in Most guys and guns go in groups. In the city these are called street gangs. Guys crawl out of the woodwork for the hunt, guys who never even go outdoors for the rest of the year. Guys who don't know which end of the barrel to look down and who will shoot at anything that moves and some that don't. Many hunt for meat to eat, but some guys are only to eat, but some guys are only there for the thrill of the kill; some are just there to party. Hence the term "hunting

Most of the fun seems to center around the hunt camp, eating, drinking and Tom Fool-

ery. I don't know him personal-ly but he must be like Santa Claus because he ly but he must be like Santa Claus because he gets around to all the camps. It's no wonder that's where all the fun is, because on the watch all you get is cramps, drizzle, boredom, cold, eye strain and if you're lucky, a 200 pound carcass to drag out. Then you get to celebrate by drinking too much and sleeping on a lumny. get to celebrate by drinking too much and sleeping on a lumpy mattress or old board with ten other guys snoring and break-ing wind. much.

The hunt camp is usually a real piece of work. Designed to discourage the participation of wives, most are shacks and hovels lost back in the woods and unspoiled by any accourtements newer than 1910. But they are part of the hunting tradition of roughing it, even the splinters on the outhouse seats.

Most are not ventilated and are either too cold, too hot or too damp. Open bunks line the walls and are shared with whatever living creatures have invaded since last fail. Who soon leave since there are usually no bathing facilities over the next two weeks. Which explains why everyone at a hunt camp begins to have the same unshaven, disleveled Daniel Bonne look. It also explains more drinking too much. much.

Deer hunting is controlled by a system of tags issued under

Getting your government contracts

The public sector in Ontario, which includes everything from the provincial government to school boards, hospitals and municipalities, spends more than $20 billion a year on goods and services. Its shopping list includes everything from paper clips to photocopiers, pickup trucks to professional services.

The Ontario government ministries alone buy $2 billion worth of equipment and services each year. About two thirds of this spending represents purchases from small businesses, defined as companies with less than 100 employees.

sents purchases from small businesses, defined as companies with less than 100 employees. It is not surprising, therefore that many new small businesses are eager to find out what government buys and how government goes about making its purchasing decisions. As the Ontario government's "State of Small Business 1988" report says, the added sales volume and expertise gained through sales to the public sector can help a young company grow more quickly and become a stronger competitor both at home and abroad. "In the case of sales to government, it's important for a company to identify what departments it can provide goods and services to, make calls to the relevant ministries and get onsupplierslists," says Jim Wickens, senior coordinator of procurement policy for the Ministry of Industry, Trade and Technology.

To help businesses sort through the bureaucratic maxe, a book entitled "Ontario's Public Sector Market" is available from Ontario government bookstores. It lists every provincial ministry, municipality, school board and hospital board in the province, and gives the names and phone numbers of buyers.

And to make matters even easier when dealing with numbers of buyers.

And to make matters even easier when dealing with provincial ministries, a "one-window" system is now being designed and implemented to let vendors register their company, products and services with a single government office. ment office.

Here are some other facts

Here are some other facts that are worth knowing about Ontario government buying:

* Six ministries account for 70 per cent of all government purchases. They are the Ministry of transportation, the Ministry of Natural Resources, the Ministry of the Environment, the Ministry of Community and Social Services, The Ministry of Government Services.

* 90 per cent of all government purchases are for ment purchases are for amounts below $150,000.

* There are more than 56,000

firms that sell to government

during an average year, and 44,000 of these firms have total annual sales to the province of less than $5,000. About 7,000 firms have total sales to the government between $5,000 and $25,000.

* It is also important to know that some ministries have established decentralized established decentralized purchasing systems which allow regional offices to deal directly with local suppliers while other ministries general-ly follow centralized purchasing rules.

* 85 percent of the government's suppliers sell to just one ministry.

* The government applies a "Buy Canadian" policy.
On a national level, a publication called Selling the Government - A guide to Government Procurement in Canada, describes the procurement process for all federal, provincial and territorial bodies. This book is available in all federal and provincial government bookstores.

You want paper clips, I can get 'em; you want photocopiers, I can get 'em. In fact, you name it, I can get it – so let's talk business!'' by Janice Pinke Hugh Johnston begins this school year as a grade two teacher at the Madoc Townteacher at the Madoc Town-ship Public School; and with his beginning comes an end to what residents have known for the past four years as the Madoc Music Centre on Russell Street. Hugh Johnston is not closing shon completely however, he is

Hugh Jonnston is not closing shop completely however, he is just moving it into the home he has nearly finished building south of Madoc. Hugh's music business on Russell Street is currently accessible by appointment only and that is how he is going to run his business from his home - by appointment only.

By the end of September the spacious Music Centre next to Madoc's Dairy, will have a new occupant. Rebel Video is moving, after spending, over eight years at it's Durham Street south location Owners, Joe and Joan Tremain are Joe and Joan Tremain are excited about the move and the endless possibilities the added space will give them.

Most folks know Hugh Johnston through his unique freestyle teaching techniques on the piano, organ, guitar and vocals. You can also hear Hugh tinkle the Ivories at Moira Lake's Two Loons Steak and Seafood Restaurant Satur-

A studio in his home will allow Hugh to continue teaching his clientele which come from as far away as Belleville and Trenton. His classes will resume in the fall. He is keeping the same phone number which you can call by dialing 473-4143.

Council drops lot severence condition

by Janice Pinke
A condition imposed on lot everences was dropped by funtingdon Township council at their regular meeting
August 22nd.
Providing 3.5 gallons of potable water per minute is now no longer part of the severence bylaw in Huntingdon after Bill Rollins motioned for it's removal and Walton Reid seconded it.
Previously the motion had been brought forward during a council meeting of the Township but no other councillors could second it because they were all in a conflict-ofinterest.

were all in a conflict-ofinterest.

Walton Reid recently obtained the 3.5 gallons of potable water which was a condition of severence, removing the conflict-of-interest he had previously declared.

Council removed this condition of severence before a delegation of an estimated 50 people, who had gathered at the hall last Tuesday night, had the chance to voice their disapproval of the bylaw.

Council heard the delegation
anylow.

The condition of severence now removed in Huntingdon Township was passed back in March of this year due to pressure from the County of Hastings who was planning to pass such a condition. One month later the County of Hastings voted against the institution of this condition of severence.

Institution of this condition of severence.

Madoc Village has no such condition because properties are included on the village sewer system and in Madoc Township no amount of potable water as a condition is recognized by council.

Bill Alen. was spearliesded.

Andrea Peters, who left over a week ago for the Canada Games in Saskatoon, will be returning to Madoc later this week with a gold medal in tow. The Ontario women's soft-ball team blasted British Columbia 6-0 for the gold in the finals of the competition.

the abovenoted delegation, says that his counterparts (including himself) are still in defiance of one more bylaw which says that if a landowner which says that if a landowner is applying for severence of a lot under two acres zoned 'rural' then it must be re-zoned to 'rural residential' at a cost of $400 so that Huntingdon Township can prohibit the landowner from housing livestock on the property.

Angry at the $400 charge for re-zoning; what the property owners are requesting is that the livestock condition be added into the rural designation.

added into designation.

The next regular meeting of Huntingdon Township council is September 13th at 7:30 p.m.

Andrea bringing home yet another gold

him for work. John lives in the house he was born in on Quin-Mo-Lac Road in Huntingdon Township with his wife and says he has no plans for his retirement, just relaxation. Mados's Canada Talc Limited formed in 1896, is renowned as being the oldest continuous mine operating on the same ore body in Ontario. And a Happy Birthday to John who celebrated his 65th birthday August 28th.

New dump policies may cancel annual Township pick-up of large household items

The regular meeting of the council of Huntingdon Township was held last Wednesday. August 9th. commencing at 7.30 p.m.

A discussion took place regarding the recycling program for the Centre and South Hastings County Waste Management Group. Council requested a letter from Robert Argue indicating the number of municipalities which have made a commitment to date as well as Huntingdon Township's mated cost.

mated cost.

Discussion took place regarding the one day pick-up of large household items which the Township has provided over the past two years. With the new policies that have been established at the Madoc Landill Site the Township would be charged for each truck load of refuse which is delivered to the dump and the Township employees would have to deposit each article in the place designated. It was discussed that Jim Byers might be contacted to see if he is still interested in receiving old appliances and discuss at a future meeting of council. The Clerk was advised to contact-Jim Byers to confirm if he is interested in utilizing the scrap from old appliances. from old appliances.

A letter was received from Bart McFadden advising of his resignation as a Township resignation as a Roads Department employee. This is to be effective August 25th. Mr. McFadden advised that he has been offered employment with another firm in Belleville. Bart's resignations are accorded with regrets. tion was accepted with regrets. The Township is now advertising for someone to fill the position of operator for the Roads Department.

Pastor Aaron Patriquin, Madoc Wesleyan & Free Methodist Church

People spend fortunes trying to preserve their clay jars. Facelifts, creams lotions, diets, exercises, country living, and anything else which promises longevity are sought. But despite all the attention given to our frail frames, they return to the dust, just as they came. The investment in a mortal body pays little dividends at the end. But, there is another part of a person's being that is worth investment. The soul lives on forever, either in God's presence or in His absence. Perhaps that is why Jesus said, "What good is it for a man to gain the whole world, yet forfeit his soul?" Mark 8:36 NIV).

Most of the New Testament draws our attention to the condition of our soul. It is either lost because of our sin or saved because of our faith in Christ's sacrifice.

The New Testament puts a high premium on the worth of a soul. To the early Christians nothing was as valuable as the soul. the first disciples of Christ were willing to lose everything if they could but save their soul. Because they considered their soul so precious, they gave much attention to its health. This stype of perspective on living assures us of our ultimate destiny. The people who care for their soul can know that they are ready for heaven.

Just before General Eisenhower died, Billy Graham was invited to visit him at his hospital room in Washington D.C. He was told he could stay thirty mimotes: When he went in, the general was wearing his usual big smile, even though he knew he didn't have long to what happened:

When thirty minutes were up, he asked me to stay longer and said to me, 'Billy, I want you to tell me again how can I be sure my sins are forgiven and that I am going to heaven, because nothing else matters now."

I took my New Testament and read him scriptures. I pointed out that we are not going to heaven because of our good works, or because of the money we've given to the church. We are going to heaven totally and completely on the basis of the merits of what Christ did on the cross. Therefore, he could rest in comfort that Jesus paid it all!

After prayer, Ike said, "Thank You I'm ready!."

We do not have to wait until our deathbed to care for our soul, but we must take care of it before we leave this world. It is the only way to be ready to go. Wieners

The Hastings County Farm Show and Plowing Match was held Aug. 23 on the farm of Marvin Cooney, on Glen Ross Road, and according to orga-nizer's was a 100 percent improvement.

President of the Hastings President of the Hastings County Plowman's Associa-tion, Jim Thompson says the day went terrific, and that everything went fairly well. Thompson says that this was the first year that both the Farm Show and Plowing Match were held in conjunce-tion on the same day. He says Match were held in conjunc-tion on the same day. He says that it obviously must have went well, as the number of Farm Show displays went from last year's three to this year's 69. Thompson also contributes the turnout to a lot more advertising and promo-tion than in recent years.

Bill Sutherland of J.E. McKinney Realty Ltd., who was a main publicist of the event called it an outstanding success. Sutherland was also able to make up a questionaire, which he gave to 19 of the promoters at the Farm Show. All 19 said they liked the show, and would consider coming back next year, according to the poll. Overall, the poll says that the exhibiters were very supportive of the event. supportive of the event.

The Ontario Plowman's Association Director for Hast-ings County, Lindsey Sills, says he was happy with the event and that he has good things to report to the execu-tive. Sills also says that the number of plowmen and plow-women were up by one-third from the last few years, also.

The Farm Show and Plowing Match began early. Aug. 23. Exhibiters were there throughout the day, showing off the latest of products, agricultural displays and antiques. Plowing began at 10:30 a.m., there being 11 classes of competition, including a V.I.P. class for local politicians, and the Queen of the Furrow Class, to determine this year's Queen of the Furrow. Soil and Cropdemonstrations held in the afternoon, included corn planting with different tillage, corn varieties planted with No-Till Drift. History of Plowing

The annual Plowing Match is a large event in Hastings County, and has its roots tied into matches held almost a century

Between 1910 and 1920, some records indicate activity in terms of plowing matches, but specific details are non-existant. In 1924, Hastings specific details are inflexistant. In 1924, Hastings Plowmen's Association existed, and Indian plowing matches also are mentioned in records. In 1925, an Indian Plowing Match was held in Deseronto, with two winners being sent to the London Plowing Match. This event was again repeated in 1927-28. Between 1931 and 1933, home plowing competitions, where individual farms would be plowed, and judges would go from farm to farm. There was a County trophy, and teams were sent to the International Plowing. The Mohawk Plow-men's Association grew out of the on-going Indian Plowing Match. In 1948, home plowing competitions started again, and in 1958, the Mohawk Plowing Match became a County event. In 1951, the Executive Committee of the International founded the Hastings Plowmen's Association. It has held a County plowing match up to the present time. The Mohawk Plowmen's Association after 1972. Since, the Hastings Plowmen's Association has featured coaching and competition for young people, as they still do today.

In conclusion, our plowing match can be derived from those of the Indians back in the 1910's, or possibly earlier. These competitions became the forerunners of our own annual event.

RECIPES

Here's how baked beans and basic seasoning can help you feed a hungry family with just a half a pound of ground beef and a few hamburger buns. CHILI BEAN AND BEEF 1 tbsp vegetable oil 1 onion (chopped) 1/2 lb. ground beef 1 can (14 oz) beans in tomato sauce

1 can (14 oz) beans in tomato sauce
1 tbsp spicy barbecue sauce
1 tbsp chili powder, salt and pepper grated cheese for topping
Saute onion in hot oil in a frying pan until soft, about 5 minutes. Add beef and cook 10 minutes stirring occasionally. Add beans, barbecue sauce, chili powder and salt and pepper to taste. Bring to a boil, then simmer uncovered until thick, about 10 minutes. Meanwhile cut buns in half crosswise and toast on both sides. Divide meat mixture evenly over bottom of each bun. Top with grated cheese and cover with top part of bun. serve with green salad and a fruit dessert. CHOW! SEE YOU NEXT WEEK.

homes must have tremendous self-discipline and a commitment to work in order to compete with firms run from more conventional locations.

But that doesn't stop many people. It's estimated that there are about 200,000 Canadians operating businesses from their homes, ranging from writers and translators to craftspeople and accountants. They fit into a few broad categories. Many are retired professionals, aged 55 and over, who still feel they can do important work by offering thewir skills as consultants. Others are victims of the recent mergar and downsizing Others are victims of the recent merger and downsizing mania, who figure working from home will not only give them an outlet for their skills, but prevent them from losing their jobs once again if there is more corporate belt-tightening. Some women go off on their own when they feel that a corporation's "glass ceiling" won't allow them to rise any higher because of their gender; others are mothers who want to stay at home with their children, while putting their professional skills to use.

In a release dated July 17, 1989, the Federal Minister of the Environment announced regulations to eliminate lead from gasoline effective December 1, 1990. This dead-line has been advanced from line has been advanced from the original intent of Decem-ber 1992. The Canadian Envir-onmental Act gives the govern-ment the power to issue regula-tions for any fuel that causes risk to the health of humans.

risk to the neath of numans.
It is said in the release that the lead particulate content in Canada's air has declined by 85 per cent through the use of air emission controls, between 1974 and 1987.

Lead in gasoline was a momentous discovery in about 1920, tetraethyl lead in gas boosted octane ratings and thus helped prevent engine knock. Unfortunately it has now been proven that the emis-sions are harmful to human health and with the monumenhealth and with the monumen-tal increase in motor vehicles using this type of fuel, steps must be taken to reduce or totally eliminate the product. Because of the body weight ratio to amount of lead absorbed, the children are at greatest risk absorbed, the children are at greatest risk.

Some effects are: mental development of young, lower birth weights, increased risk of premature birth, interference with haemoglobin synthesis, growth inhibition and hypertension, says the release. The forgoing plus the increased loading were seemingly the prime factors for accelerating the deadline.

There are of course benefits

There are of course benefits to the motorist in that spark plugs and exhaust systems should require less mainte-nance without the resultant lead accumulation associated with tetraethyl fuels.

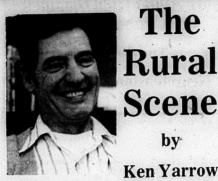

On the negative side, engines designed to operate on leaded fuel only where the lead served as a valve seat lubricant and helped lessen exhaust valve recession, problems could arise. The release states that by 1990 that the number of vehicles on the road in this class will be minimal.

prepared to face our problems and take effective measures to correct them. All too often we hear that old cry, it was okay for my father, therefore it is still okay for me. Our fore-fathers did what they found best in their time and we must carry on doing the same if this world is to remain a civilized and environmentally safe place for succeeding generations to grow in.

On this same vane it is encouraging to see that Rawdon Township is biting the bullet and has started recypunet and has started recy-cling. Thus helping to cut down on the vast amounts being buried to plague future genera-tions. A well deserved tip of the hat Rawdon.

Speaking of government regulations, I heard tonight that they are considering banning round bales in favour of square bales. Reason? That cows were no longer getting a square meal a day.

But trouble can arise for even prudent handlers of money when items of income and expenditure occur on an irregular basis. How do you account for these items when you're drawing up your master financial program?

financial program?
First, you must make a clear distinction between unexpected new debt obligations and those known debts which you have to clear by quarterly or annual payments. There is much you can do about the unexpected. Your best course of action is to ensure that you have financial reserve set have financial reserve set aside for emergencies (or, for that matter, unexpected investment opportunities.)

The size of the reserve is a matter of personal choice. Some professional financial planners recommend that it should amount to three months income. Regardless of the amount, the money should be readily accessible yet invested where it is earning interest income. Good vehicles to use are saving accounts or interest income. Good venicles to use are saving accounts or short-term deposits at a bank or mutual fund money account. When it comes to putting debts you handle only occasionally each year into your financial program, you'll have to do some calculations.

For example, suppose you borrowed $24,000 from your parents to help you make a downpayment on your Family's home. The loan was interest free but you promised ly's home. The loan was interest-free but you promised to repay them $2,400 a year for 10 years, the payments to be made each Nov. 1.

In order to meet that financial obligation, your financial statement should show that statement should show that you are putting aside $200 per month over a 12-month period for repayment of this special debt. Of course, you could give your parents $200 each month.

The Intrepid Cottager

by Craig Nicholson
(c. 1989 All Rights Reserved)
The worst part of summer is that at has to end, and for many that is on Labour Day when the kids go back to school. Even though there are still occasional weekends until Thanksgiving and the final close up for the season, Labour Day is the psychological end when the mood and priorities inevitably swing away from country and cottage For me the end has to do with being compelled to finish a whole summer's negected "to do" list in one mad weekend. Labour Day could not have been more aptly named.

named.

But the labour should be everyone else's, not mine.

After all, I want to enjoy all these ending minutes, not work them. But the wife, having suffered my written barbs all summer and who now has her own fan club, has nothing left to lose except me, so I decided to humor her. Also, I didn't think she was waving that baseball bat around just to move air.

The gazebo had to come move air.

The gazebo had to come down, although the screening would have folded more easily if the dogs weren't tangled inside. I leave the frame if the dogs weren't tanged inside. I leave the frame outside since it's weather proof and composed of about 3000 unmarked pieces which took me a year to assemble. Same with the indoor/outdoor carpeting, to test the guarantee.

Then I had to get the boat back up into the boat house, which I tried to do this year by simply driving at high speed straight up the ramp and flipping the motor up at the instant before the whole thing crashed onto the floor. It would have worked too, if I hadn't missed the ramp by an inch when the wife yelled: "Hey honey, I don't think that's such a good idea!". She looked smug as I added boat house repairs to the 1990 "to do" list.

Once the pieces of the boat

Once the pieces of the boat were in, then I had to pack in all the other summer junk-deck chairs, hammock, lawn mover, gardening tools, hoses, teriyaki life jackets, barbecue, gas cans, oars, paddles, skiis, picnic stuff, canoe, ladders-and squeeze the door shut. As I locked it, there was a hugh crash inside as the load fell over. I only hope I remember to tell the wife before she opens that door next spring.

to tell the wife Detore since that door next spring.
The wife was inside cleaning. The dogs were following her around shedding. They aren't cued to shed to temperaren't cued to shed to she aren't cued to sned to tempera-ture, only by cleaning. They are brushed regularly enough to make any one else bald, but always have a supply to depo-sit where she just vacuumed.

The wife says that she wants to leave everything clean for next spring. I think she just doesn't want the mice and other intruders spreading dirty rumors about her house keeping. I suggested she vacuum the does rumors about her house ing. I suggested she vacuum the dogs.

The boat motor has to go in to the dealer for winterizing and storage. I'll do that one day when a neighbor can help lift it. After three years, I hope someone stops by soon. It's getting harder to start when I go fishing and I think 25 pulls is enough.

The storms had to go on and shutters to be secured. Neither got painted again this summer, not even fire engine red. But neither did the house, so every-

I told the wife the value of a

Managing your money

Cont'd from page 5 but there's no point in that as your debt is interest-free. Let your money earn interest for

Jour money earn interest for you.

In fact there are any number of once-a-year costs the average family may have to cope with. Items such as the annual vacation, university tuition (or at least an initial payment) and, if you are financially prudent, you will try to invest your Registered Retirement Savings Plan (RRSP) contribution at the start of each calendar year. In this way you obtain the maximum tax shelter from this plan.

To provide for these irregular obligations, you have to set money aside for them in one way or another. Divide each annual cost by 12 and then you will know the monthly cost amount. This gives you an accurate financial snapshot. It also serves as a reminder to you to make provisions for any periodic extra expenditures.

The same goes for your income, of course. Not all of it may come into your possession on a monthly basis. Perhaps you get an annual bonus form your employer; or a guaran-teed investment certificate you own may mature on a certain date during the year. Again for the sake of accuracy, you may be advised to calculate this additional income on its monthly value.

This system is optional,however. Some people may have a habit of using a predict-

they want, no matter the time of day.

2) They get to spend more time with their families.

3) Their tax situation is theoretically better, since all expenses that generate business can be written off.

Of course there are disadvantages as well. People who work at home often find that their time isn't their own since they're trying to do many different clients. They're lonely, since often the only people they get to speak to are their clients, spouses and children. And most seriously, as Laurence Ginsberg, a small business consultant and managing partner of the Ginsberg Organtre of the Ginsberg Organical contracts. partner of the Ginsberg Orga-nization in willowdale Ont., points out: "Many people don't take a home business seriously, they think your operation is too small or fly-by-night."

Overcoming the perception that a business must have a formal office to be legitimate comes with time, but working at home, alone, is something that always has to be dealt with. One way to get over this isolation, says Ginsberg, is to arrange to have business meetings outside the house. Another way is to stay in touch with way is to stay in touch with your peers by joining organiza-tions of mutual interest in your particular field.

The organization can be as formal as The Association of Translators and Interpreters of Ontario or your local board of trade. It can be a service club such as The Rotary or Kiwanis. Or it can just be a cluster of like-minded people.

tors in Scarborough, Ont., who began meeting informally after they discovered that they lived near one another. Even-tually, they began referring business back and forth, lend-ing each other equipment and even marketing their services together.

Another key function of these associations is networking, something you should be doing in any case. After all, getting in any case. After all, getting work for a home business "is all word of mouth," says Pries-nitz. "You meet someone who knows someone else who can give you work."

MEMORIAMS

BRONSON - in memory of a dear Father & Grandfather, Daniel, who passed away August 23, 1979. The blow was great, the shock severe, We little thought the end was near, and only those who have lost can tell. The pain of parting without More each day we miss you. Father,

More each Father. Friends may think the wound is healed, But they little know the Sorrow.
That lies within our hearts concealed.
Sadly missed by Marcella, Crofton & Family.

CASSIDY - In loving memory of a dear friend, Annie, who passed away August 27, 1988.

Past her suffering past her pain, Cease to weep for tears are Cease to weep for lears are vain, She who suffered is at rest. Gone to Heaven with the blest. Sadly missed & lovingly remembered by your friend Lisa.

DAVIDSON-QUACKENBUSH
- In loving memory of Dad who passed away August 5, 1971. Mother September 8th, 1988, our Son Earl, August 28, 1977. To-day recalls the memory of loved ones gone to rest, And those who think of them to-day.

And those who trank of ment to day, Are the ones who loved them best. The flowers we lay upon their grave May wither and decay, But the love for them who lies beneath Will never fade away. Always loved and remembered by Reta. Jim Davidson and family.

GULAS - In loving memory of a dear husband, father & grandfather who passed away so suddenly August 30, 1988 at Thompson Lake Lovingly remembered by wife, daughters, son-in-law & grandchildren. Betty Lange Gulas & Family.

NEWTON - In loving memory of a dear wife and mother. May Newton who passed away on September 1, 1988. God knew that she was suffering That the hills were hard to climb, So he closed her weary eyelids eyelids And whispered Peace be thine." Away in the beautiful hills of God, By the valley of rest so fair, Some day, we know not
